Twelve Nebraska high school seniors, including 4 from Lincoln, earned a place on the 1963 Regents All-State Scholastic Team, the University of Nebraska announced.

The first - team members were selected solely on scores in the recent university Regents examination, taken by 5,097 seniors in 431 high schools.

Captain of the team is Thomas S. Hammerstrom of Omaha Central, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hammerstrom. He ranked first in the state-wide competition which is given only to those seniors in the upper third of their class.

The second top scorer was a classmate, Michael L. Siemon of Omaha Central, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Siemon.

Other members of the first team, listed alphabetically, are:

FIDEL FLEXES NEW MUSCLES

Parades His Modern Anti-Aircraft Missiles

. . . JFK CALLED VULGAR PIRATE CHIEF

Havana (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime flexed its Soviet-supplied military muscle Wednesday in a parade exhibiting for the first time a type of anti-aircraft missile described by a commentator as the most modern in existence.

The ground-to-air missiles, not generally known to have been in Castro's possession, heaved into view at the tail end of an hour-long display of military hardware, part of the celebration of the bearded prime minister's 4th anniversary of power.

An announcer identified 6 missiles as surface-to-air and surface-to-sea or coastal defense rockets. As the sleek weapons, towed by trucks, rumbled past a wide-eyed crowd, an excited announcer said the anti-aircraft missiles could "knock down an enemy plane at its highest flight ceiling."

The announcers did not say whether the sharp-nosed gray weapons played any part in downing a U.S. U2 reconnaissance jet over Cuba during the October crisis. The crisis arose over Cuba's possession of intermediate range land-based missiles with nuclear potential, regarded by President Kennedy as offensive weapons. The President did not extend his ultimatum for withdrawal of weapons to those considered defensive.

In a 90-minute anniversary speech, Castro referred briefly to the missiles, saying "today, the first ground-to-air rocket artillery crews in training have paraded past here," He said the rockets would be used to keep Cuban airspace free of intruders. Then he quickly changed the subject, claiming the United States had broken promises made to the Soviet Union toward the end of the crisis. He did not elaborate.

Castro assailed President Kennedy as a "vulgar pirate chief," and claimed he forced Washington to pay indemnity for the release of Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners who were liberated for $53 million worth of food and drugs sorely needed by the Cuban regime.

First Time

"Even though they try to dissimulate, the imperialists agreed to pay our country the indemnity that the revolutionary tribunals set for the Giron Beach invaders," Castro said. "They call it ransom, but the fact is that they had to accept the payment of indemnifications. For the first time in its history, imperialism paid an indemnification of war."

He referred to the April, 1961, abortive invasion attempted by Cuban exiles. Referring to President Kennedy's welcome to the liberated men, Castro said "this man acted like a vulgar pirate chief, to meet with these cowards and then say to the world that their flag would return to a free Havana."

Castro repeated his demand that the United States get out of its Guantanamo Bay Naval Base at the eastern tip of Cuba, but he did not intimate that any other than legal means would be employed to oust the United States. The prime minister also repeated that Cuba would never accept inspection on its soil to verify the lack of land-based offensive Soviet missiles, as the United States has demanded. He made no criticism of Moscow for the withdrawal of the missiles and jet bombers, but stressed Cuba's sovereignty.

No Inspection

"For that reason," Castro said, "we do not accept the unilateral inspection intended by imperialism only to humiliate. For that reason there was no inspection, there will be no inspection, and if they want to inspect, let them be inspected by us. We are just as sovereign or more sovereign than they are."

Explosion Rips Plant

. . . SIXTEEN OR MORE ARE KILLED

Terre Haute, Ind. (AP)—An explosion ripped the Wabash River front plant of Home Packing Co. at dawn Wednesday, killing at least 16 men and injuring 55.

Twelve bodies were removed by rescue workers who wore gas masks as they dug through mountains of rubble in air foul with deadly ammonia and methane gas. Mayor Ralph Tucker said there was no hope for 4 workers lost somewhere in the basement.

Broken refrigeration lines released the ammonia, and ruptured sewer lines were the probable source of the methane.

The rescue operation slowed as daylight faded, but about 50 men labored under floodlights to remove tons of brick and metal and planned to remain until the missing were accounted for.

About 200 day workers had just reported for duty when the blast demolished about one-third of the two-story meat packing plant about 7:30 a.m. (CST). The plant had been closed for the New Year's holiday since last Friday.

Went Whoomp

There were strong indications a gas leak may have caused the blast. An insurance company attorney said an employe in the basement smelled gas shortly before the explosion. Other employes gave similar opinions, but Fire Chief Norman Fesler said, "I just don't know . . . It just went whoomp."

The leaking sewer gas reached a hazardous level in the area around the plant. Smoking was banned at the rescue site and crowds were pushed back one block in all directions.

Among the dead was Donald W. Scott, a salesman and brother of the firm's president, Robert Scott.

Still Sitting

"We'll need a block and tackle to get him out," said Ed Bridgewater, 28, of Terre Haute, a member of a mine rescue squad, peering at the dead man, buried in rubble to his neck.

"He's still sitting in his chair."

City police reported 55 injured and taken to the city's two hospitals, where 4 were in serious condition. Many others were released after treatment.

Rescued unconscious from the rubble after 4 hours of painstaking digging was a shipping foreman, John W. Fisher, of Rosedale. A doctor clambered in close enough to give him 3 shots of morphine during the long rescue operation.

Mayor Ralph Tucker, who rushed to the blast scene unshaven to direct the rescue work, said Fisher moaned, "Please help me," during the hours it took to dig him out.

—SHOWDOWN NEAR—

Tshombe Urged To Act Not Talk

Leopoldville, the Congo (AP)—Elements of a final Congo showdown — military and diplomatic — built up against beleaguered Katanga regime Wednesday.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant rejected Tshombe's overtures for further negotiations on unification. He called through a New York spokesman for Tshombe to deliver "action . . . not words."

Thant believes the only discussions required are on technical matters, the spokesman said, and he "definitely is not seeking a resumption of negotiations."

Fall In Line

Falling into line on one technical matter was the Union Miniere Du Haut Katanga, the giant copper mining company whose operations have poured $40 million a year into Tshombe's treasury.

The company's Brussels headquarters announced it was dispatching experts to Leopoldville to help devise a system to split those revenues between Katanga and the Central Congo Government of Premier Cyrille Adoula. This help for Adoula's financially unstable regime is a key point of Thant's plan.

AP correspondent Dennis Neeld at Elisabethville, reported costly machinery being moved out of Union Miniere's huge copper refinery at Jadotville because of Tshombe's earlier threats to destroy all such facilities.

Carried Out

Neeld said consular officials in Elisabethville believe the scorched earth policy will be carried out if Tshombe's proposal for a cease-fire and resumption of talks is not accepted.

Neeld reported many bridges blown up and power facilities destroyed. He called Elisabethville a dead city, without power.

In Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, the South African Press Association said radio reports from Katanga declared Katangan gendarmerie will fight for Jadotville street by street.

The U.N. Congo command, rushing a combat column northwestward along the Elizabethville-Jadotville road toward Tshombe's emergency headquarters in Kolwezi against mortar and machine gun fire, was assured powerful supporting equipment from the United States even if peace came overnight.

Official Washington sources said the U.S. government has agreed to deliver 6 armored personnel carriers, 30 medium trucks and some mine-clearing devices by mid-January. Three U.S. transport planes and one tanker plane will be based in Leopoldville to provide continuing support.

Copters Shot Up; 3 Americans Slain

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas shot up a fleet of U.S. helicopters carrying Vietnamese troops into battle Wednesday, killing 3 Americans — one an Army captain — and wounding 4 others. There were fears two of the helicopters were cut off in enemy territory.

Springing a trap, the Viet Cong held their fire as the first wave of helicopters landed in rice field country near the banks of the Mekong River 50 miles southwest of Saigon.

"Then all hell broke loose," returning crewmen said.

With automatic small arms and cannon fire, the communists dealt the costliest defeat yet suffered by U.S. helicopters supporting President Ngo Dinh Diem's pro-western government.

Officials here said the 3 deaths Wednesday — a captain serving as a military adviser, a helicopter crew-chief and a gunner — brought to 26 the number of Americans killed in action in the Viet Nam civil war.

Five Down

(Pentagon figures up to Wednesday listed 21 killed in action and 31 deaths from other causes.)

The communist groundfire hit 14 American helicopters taking part in an operation that began at dawn — and brought down at least 8. Five were destroyed.

Four of the aircraft downed were turbine-powered escort helicopters. The others were H21 troop-carriers.

Wounded Saved

The wounded Americans, one described as in serious condition, were evacuated under heavy enemy fire. It was feared that two big H21 helicopters, with their crews, were still cut off by Viet Cong.

A battle was reported raging at dusk.

Vietnamese air force fighter bombers struck with rockets and shells at Viet Cong positions near the river town of Vinh Long, but the guerrilla force held and fought back instead of breaking away as the guerrillas usually do after attack.

Sources here said the communists — estimated to be at least battalion strength of 400 men or more — were heavily armed.

Gen. Bachman To Assist 34th Division Chief

Gov. Frank B. Morrison announced Wednesday the appointment of William F. Bachman of Omaha as a brigadier general in the Nebraska National Guard to fill the post of assistant division commander of the 34th Infantry (Red Bull) Division.

The vacancy was created by the recent retirement of Maj. Gen. Warren C. Wood of Gering, division commander, and the rotation of the division command to Iowa.

Bachman, born at Council Bluffs, Iowa, has served the division as chief of staff since 1960. Prior to that time he commanded the 134th Infantry Regiment, from 1955 to 1960.

Gen. Bachman began his military career with the 134th Infantry by enlisting as a private Jan. 12, 1934.

He became a second lieutenant in 1940, entered federal service when the National Guard was mobilized that year, subsequently served in the Aleutian Command and was released from active duty as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Gen. Bachman is personnel director for the Omaha Public Power District.

Omahans Claim 'Retaliation' In Committee Assignments

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. George Syas of Omaha Wednesday said he believes committee assignments approved by the Legislature represent "retaliation" against opponents of the legislative reapportionment constitutional amendment.

"We got the business," Syas declared.

The 6-term senator noted that he was removed as chairman of the Education Committee after serving as its head for two terms.

Sen. Michael Russillo, also of Omaha, "deserved a chairmanship, but they obviously didn't want him," Syas said.

'Retaliation'

"I assume that it is retaliation because Syas and Russillo and some others fought Amendment 7."

Sen. Sam Klaver, another Omahan, said the assignments amounted to a "rape" of the old Second Congressional District, which includes Omaha.

Syas was named chairman of the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee, and Klaver was reappointed head of the Public Health Committee. They are the only two Omahans to chair standing committees.

Syas, Russillo, Klaver and Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha voted to reject the Committee on Committees' assignments when they were submitted to the floor Wednesday.

Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala was recorded as not voting.

Bills Introduced

The 1963 session's first two bills were tossed into the hopper during a brief 35-minute meeting.

LB1, introduced by Sens. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln and George Gerdes of Alliance, would implement the constitutional amendment providing 4-year terms for governor and lieutenant governor.

LB2, proposed by Sen. Dale Erlewine of Grant, would make it unlawful to drive motor vehicles with parking lights in lieu of head lamps.

Bills are expected to start streaming into the chamber Thursday morning. Some 290 requests for bills have already been received by the bill drafter's office.

'Most Important'

Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney told legislators that they are "the most important people in the state . . . because you write the rules by which the people of Nebraska must live."

Burney, veteran lawmaker and presiding officer of the Legislature, reminded senators that they will often hear the views of lobbyists and those who contact them by letter during the session.

But, Burney urged, lawmakers should not forget "the thousands and thousands of people who will never contact you, yet who elected you to watch out for their welfare."

The Legislature will convene Thursday at 10 a.m., then conduct inauguration ceremonies for state officials at 2 p.m.

Chiefs To Eye Farm Market Loss

JFK, FREEMAN TO STUDY EFFECT ON U.S. AG PLANS

Palm Beach, Fla. (UPI)—The loss of European markets for American farm products will be one of the main points of discussion between President Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who joined the winter White House contingent here Wednesday.

Freeman and the President will hold their meeting Thursday morning. The White House said it would concern the farm program to be submitted to the new Congress and the European Common Market.

Kennedy is known to feel that while success of the Common Market is highly desirable from the standpoint of a stronger Atlantic community, the same success could have a highly adverse effect on U.S. farm exports, one of this country's best earners in balance of payments.

Same Trouble

Great Britain also is going through a similar problem of reconciling its own agricultural interests with those of the Common Market.

In recent talks with friends about U.S. agriculture and the overseas markets, the President pointed out that after years of enjoying the fruits of a revolution in farm production in this country, the same sort of technological revolution has spread to Europe.

With the increasing effectiveness of the Common Market and greater European farm production, this will cut down the demand for U.S. farm products. The U.S. has no vote in the Common Market, but wants Britain to join the 6 other members.

Consideration

Taking into consideration the unsettling effect on American farm economics, the President thinks a successful Common Market will mean a much more stable, better unified and more secure Europe because of the increase in economic self-sufficiency.

How the President and Freeman explain this to farm state members of Congress probably will figure prominently in their deliberations Thursday. Freeman flew south Wednesday afternoon aboard a White House courier plane.

Prior to Freeman's arrival, the President went for an unusually long social outing with his wife and her sister, Lee Radziwill. They sailed aboard the White House yacht, Honey Fitz, to the southern end of Lake Worth to have lunch at the Lantana, Fla., estate of Commodore Harold Vanderbilt, one of the nation's pioneer yacht racers and a friend of the First Family from Newport, R.I.

Meantime, the White House made arrangements for the President to fly to Oklahoma City Friday for the funeral of Sen. Robert S. Kerr, who died in Washington Tuesday.

Holiday Toll Off Estimate

By United Press International

The New Year's holiday traffic death toll climbed to 389 Wednesday on late reports. The National Safety Council was cheered by the fact the final toll was far below its pre-holiday estimate.

The safety council had said that between 420 and 480 persons could die on the nation's highways during the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

The safest 4-day New Year's holiday since the council began keeping records was in 1951-52, when 375 persons were killed in traffic mishaps.

In the worst New Year's highway carnage over a 4-day period, 409 persons were killed in 1956-57.

California led the states with 47 highway fatalities. Texas had 36, Illinois 20, New York and Oklahoma 19 each, Pennsylvania 16, Florida, Georgia and Ohio 14 each, and Michigan and North Carolina 13 each.

Howard Pyle, president of the safety council, said the final toll might be an indication of a change for the better. He said council officials were "grateful" that death on the highways was held in check after the costly Christmas holidays when 655 persons died in traffic.

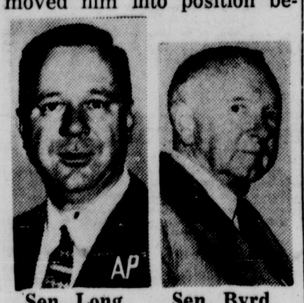

Sen. Long Moves Into No. 2 Spot

ON POWERFUL FINANCE UNIT

Washington (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., one of the Senate's younger members, moves into the spotlight as No. 2 man on the powerful Senate Finance Committee with the death of Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.

Long, 44, has 14 years of service, and has just won reelection to his 3rd full term.

This seniority now has moved him into position behind the finance chairman, veteran Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., as the second-ranking Democrat on the committee.

Sen. Long Sen. Byrd

Important Views

Thus, Long's views on the key issues which the committee handles — taxes, trade, social security, public assistance, welfare, veterans benefits — become of high importance.

Kerr, as the No. 2 man for the past six years, exerted great influence on the committee's actions.

Particularly in the 87th Congress, when the group carried a back-breaking legislative load, did Byrd call on Kerr to steer through the Senate major bills, such as the tax revision measure.

Byrd Ailing

Byrd, now 75, has been ailing in recent weeks. He contracted a fever on a European trip and was hospitalized in Baltimore over Christmas. He is now recuperating at his home in Berryville, Va., but it is uncertain whether he will be on hand for the convening of the 88th Congress next Wednesday.

Byrd announced his retirement from the Senate in 1958, but reconsidered after many Virginians urged him to continue.

When the Virginian does leave, Long will be in line to take over the chairmanship under Democratic control of the Senate.

The Louisianian first took his seat in 1948 at the age of 30, the minimum for a senator.

Not Flamboyant

He came to Washington in the shadow of the reputation of his late father, Sen. Huey P. Long, but the son did not display the flamboyance of his father, and gradually has won a reputation for hard work on his legislative interests, and for sharp, forceful debate.

Long supported much of President Kennedy's program during the 87th Congress. A notable exception was the health care proposal under the Social Security System.

The Louisiana Senator surprised the administration by coming out against this proposal, which is under the finance committee's jurisdiction. However, he backed the President on other major legislation handled by the committee, including trade expansion, public welfare revision, and the tax bill.

Train Hits Auto Twice; Driver Emerges Unhurt

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — George Romondo's small foreign car collided twice Wednesday with a railroad locomotive. But he crawled unhurt from the crumpled car.

Romondo, 46, of Tulsa, told police he heard a warning bell as he approached a Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad crossing, but thought it was sounding for another crossing a block away so he drove on.

The car collided with the right front of the locomotive and was spun into a nearby signal pole. The locomotive then hit the rear of the auto.

Romondo said he fell over on the car seat when he saw his car was going to collide with the locomotive. He was able to free himself from the wreckage. He apparently was uninjured, but was taken to a hospital for examination.

French Query Polaris Pact

. . . FAR-REACHING QUESTIONS INVOLVED

Paris (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's acceptance or refusal of President Kennedy's offer to supply France with Polaris missiles hinges on far-reaching political and technical questions.

Informed French sources said the offer, as it now stands, suggests a reply to De Gaulle's desire for tri-partite conduct of Western affairs. But, they said, it does not go far enough even to approach the French president's proposal of 1958. At that time he expressed a desire for France, Britain, and the United States to form a triumvirate.

U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen met Wednesday with Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and discussed the recent Nassau accord between Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Same Offer

The pact provided that the United States would make Polaris missiles available to Britain. The same offer was made to France.

The missiles would form a part of a multilateral Western defense force, but could be used by Britain or France when "supreme national interests" were involved.

De Gaulle is known to be deeply interested in obtaining an explanation of what is meant by "supreme national interest" and whether this would mean that France alone would be able to decide to fire a Polaris.

There is some feeling in French circles that "supreme national interest" does not mean either Britain or France could use missiles without consulting the United States.

Crews Mixed?

De Gaulle's second prime political consideration concerns the crews on Polaris submarines and the technical method of firing the missiles.

He wants to know whether crews manning such submarines, which would form part of the NATO defense of the continent, would be national, or whether they would be mixed British, French and American.

French sources said the Polaris offer is not in conflict with the French nuclear effort.

They stressed one point: De Gaulle will never give up his independent nuclear striking force even if he agrees to the Polaris offer.

Shopkeeper Can Stock Both Brandy And Bras

London (AP) — Sidney Moore won the right Wednesday to sell both brandy and bras in his lingerie shop on the busy strand.

The shop will be split down the middle, and madame's husband will be able to pick up a bottle of whisky while madame is buying herself some unmentionables.

Moore's application for a license to operate the dual purpose permises was opposed by a number of vintners, including Shorts, Ltd. Shorts, in this case, has nothing to do with the male unmentionables of the same name.

Flimsies Specialists

Moore's store, as it stands, is known as Gwen Moore, Ltd., specialists in women's flimsies.

Recently Moore looked about him and decided there was room in the area for another liquor store. The Westminster Borough magistrates agreed and issued him a license.

An appeal against his decision was made to the London Sessions Court by 6 firms which sell booze in the same section of the city.

Why It's Un-British

They said there were enough liquor stores in the area already and that selling lingerie and alcoholic beverages under the same roof was odd to the point of being un-British.

Moore's lawyer argued that all the liquor stores in the affected neighborhood sold high-priced stuff and that Moore, who planned to put in a line of reasonably-priced wines, would be performing a public service.

The court of sessions agreed, and as soon as he can get his shelves stocked Moore will start purveying rum and garter belts, gin and panties, champagne and girdles.

NBC CORRESPONDENT CLAIMS—

U.S. Censoring News, Intimidating Reporters

Washington (UPI) — An NBC correspondent in Berlin Wednesday accused U.S. officials in Germany of censoring news and intimidating U.S. reporters.

The State Department later issued a rebuttal. It also denied his charge that for a long time U.S. military vehicles had been fired upon while traveling on the autobahn to West Berlin.

Piers Anderton, speaking at a National Press Club luncheon featuring reports from 9 NBC correspondents stationed around the world, said that as a result of this policy the American public is not as well informed as it should be about developments in West Berlin and West Germany.

The economy of West Berlin, he said, is in reality not as vibrant as U.S. officials picture it.

As far as individual correspondents are concerned, he said a report was spread in Berlin that he was procommunist. "As far as I can make out," Anderton said, this was done by a U.S. State Department official.

Anderton also said that for two years U.S. troops traveling in vehicles on the autobahn from West Germany to West Berlin have been fired upon, although until last March no news was released about this.

But last spring, he said, a report was made public to coincide with the opening of disarmament negotiations in Geneva. This made it appear that the Soviets or the East Germans were suddenly acting tough, he said.

Anderton said he reported news of the shootings a year ago after hearing about them from one of his own sources. When he returned to Berlin, he said, an American official "raised hell with me and asked why I had reported it."

Beer License Granted Over City Objection

The State Liquor Control Commission granted Dec. 28 an off-sale beer license to Grenemeier's Inc. for 220 No. 10th, the city was advised Wednesday.

Grenemeier's Inc. was granted the license being relinquished by Mrs. Vivian E. Robinson for 223 No. 9th.

The City Council had recommended against the license transfer to Grenemeier's.

Reasons cited during the council hearing were that Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grenemeier, principal stockholders of the corporation, also hold a package liquor license and that transfer of the Robinson licence would leave Lincoln without a Negro-operated tavern.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Robinson and her husband, Wright, had attempted to secure tavern zoning at 22nd and P for relocating Jim's Bar and Grill.

The council approved the zoning, but a week later reversed itself and denied the zoning change on reconsideration.

DAWES COUNTY:

Complaints Get Hot Reception

...Memorandum 'Insists' On Action

Chadron (UPI)—Two representatives of the Dawes County road improvement committee got an explosive reception Wednesday when they appeared at the Dawes County Board of Commissioners meeting to present a highly-critical memorandum.

Victor Roberts, a recently re-elected commissioner, told Bill Colwell, a rancher and chairman of the citizens' group, he "must feel pretty smart, making accusations of mishandling of funds." He also called Colwell, a former university teacher, "a low down son of a biscuit college professor."

"I'm not sure if one has to take that kind of abuse on this occasion," Colwell said. He and Jack Miller, another committee representative, left the memorandum with the board. The commissioners did not discuss the memorandum during the official meeting.

The memorandum, signed by 27 Dawes County residents, listed specific criticisms of county road building and maintenance, accounting and purchasing practices. The memorandum said the committee "insists" on action.

Among other complaints, the committee said it "deplores a system of bookkeeping in which two such diverse items as Social Security payments and contractural work for armor coating are lumped together."

The memorandum also criticized the state auditor's office for not stopping the bookkeeping practices. Copies of the memorandum were sent to State Auditor Ray C. Johnson and State Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer.

The committee demanded that official papers be placed in the public files instead of private files. It also demanded that the commissioners stop making installment purchases "which we believe is a means to circumvent the legal requirement of obtaining bids on items of more than $2,000 in value."

Ask Public Hearings

The memorandum also requested selection of primary and secondary county roads with public hearings on the selections and that an annual highway program be adopted no later than March 1 each year.

The commissioners were also told by the committee "to operate on a cash basis as promptly as the necessary budgeting can be accomplished."

Roberts has argued, however, that the money the county has in the banks is earmarked for schools. When Colwell and Miller presented the memorandum, Roberts said the committee was trying to blame the commissioners for "not embezzling money from school districts."

The memorandum claimed there was about $150,000 available which was not set aside for school use.

Over $2,000 Gone; Deposit Boxes Rifled

... At Bushnell Bank

Bushnell (AP)—Burglars broke into the Kimball County Bank at Bushnell sometime during the night of Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, making off with more than $2,000 cash and rifling more than 100 safety deposit boxes.

Kimball County officials and the Federal Bureau of Investigation were investigating the breakin. Thomas J. Gearty, special agent in charge of the Omaha office of the FBI, said agents went to Bushnell Tuesday to participate in the investigation.

Kimball County officials said entrance to the bank vault was made by breaking through the wall of an unoccupied building adjacent to the bank. This let the burglars directly into the bank vault.

Omahan Dies, 2 Others Hurt On Icy Road

Logan, Ia. (AP)—An Omaha man was killed and his wife and their daughter were injured Wednesday when their car left icy Highway 30 and overturned north of here.

Killed was Clarence Addy, 58.

His wife, Ruth, 52, driver of the car, suffered internal injuries and was brought to a Missouri Valley hospital. Her condition was not immediately learned.

Mrs. Jack Brooks, 30, of Omaha received head injuries and was in poor condition at a Council Bluffs hospital.

Three of Mrs. Brooks' children escaped injury.

Harrison County Sheriff Sam Strain said the car skidded off the highway and onto the shoulder as it was attempting to pass a truck.

Omaha (AP)—Mayor Dwight A. Hollins of Fremont resigned Wednesday to take a job with an Omaha firm.

Hollins, who had been in the real estate business, took over the new-customer relations department of Hulac Chevrolet and South Rambler Co.

Asa K. Lane, president of the Fremont City Council, will be acting mayor until election. Hollins' term would have expired in April.

Columbus Recorded Largest Gain In Total Taxes, Up 23.3%

The rise in the total property tax bill in Nebraska's 25 largest cities slowed up a bit during 1962, the Nebraska Tax Research Council reported Wednesday.

Whereas the total taxes increased 8.6% in 1961, they advanced by 6.94% in 1962.

In dollars, the increase amounted to about $6 million in 1961, and $5,422,000 in 1962.

Columbus recorded the largest gain in total taxes in 1962, up 23.3%, followed by Grand Island at 13.8%, Blair at 12%, Kearney at 11.9% and South Sioux City at 11%.

The tiniest increase was recorded at Holdrege, up only six-tenths of one per cent.

Fremont repeated as the city with the lowest levy, at 63.28 mills. Plattsmouth had the high levy again in 1962 at 101 mills, down .67 from the previous year.

On the average among the 25 cities, each $100 in taxes was split up as follows: $55.32 to schools, $23.16 to the cities, $19.31 to the state, $8.14 to the counties, and $3.07 to the mental patient fund.

But there are some notable departures from the average, the council said.

"For example, in Holdrege, schools get $63.85 out of each $100 of revenue, while in Columbus, schools get only $45.08.

"The city takes $32.56 of each $100 in Columbus, while in Alliance the city's take is only $12.48."

Assessed valuation of property in the 25 cities increased from $1,073,000,000 in 1961 to $1,108,000,000 in 1962.

Only 4 cities showed a reduction in assessed valuation —Hastings down .6%, Sidney down 2.5%, Alliance down .5% and South Sioux City down .7%.

McCook recorded the largest increase in valuation, up 8.9%.

Whereas in 1961 Omaha showed a greater increase in total taxes than did Lincoln, the situation in 1962 was reversed, with Omaha recording a 6.1% increase, and Lincoln, an 8% increase.

Increases in total taxes collected in other cities included Hastings up 3.4%, Fremont 3.5, North Platte 2.2, Scottsbluff 7.0, Norfolk 8.3, Beatrice 6.3, Bellevue 8.1, McCook 10.0, Sidney 2.2, Alliance 5.4, Nebraska City 0.9, Plattsmouth 1.8, York 8.9, Falls City 8.2, Fairbury 2.8, Lexington 4.1, Chadron 3.8 and Blair 12.0.

Actor, Producer Dick Powell Dies

... FOURTH STAR TO DIE OF CANCER IN 18 DAYS

Hollywood (AP)—Dick Powell, whose Hollywood career ranged from singing in early talkie musicals to studio tycoon, died Wednesday night of cancer in an apartment he had moved into only a few days ago.

He was 58.

The veteran star died at 9:30 p.m., only 5 hours after the dread disease claimed actor Jack Carson. Powell thus became the fourth major star to be felled by cancer in 18 days.

The onetime singer in screen musicals, who later switched to tough-guy roles and then directing and producing, disclosed last Sept. 27 (1962) he had the dread disease.

Confident

Cheerfully the jaunty, personable Powell said he was confident of making a full recovery.

Next month he stepped out of the presidency of the highly successful and prolific Four Star Television, Inc., telling a hushed meeting of stockholders:

"I am not a damned bit scared. I am not resigning the presidency for health purposes."

In December Powell canceled his television appearances for the rest of the 1962-63 season on his doctor's orders. A Powell spokesman said the actor's doctor "just said he wasn't ready yet to return to work."

His doctor, John C. Sharpe, said later that cobalt treatments practically cleared up the cancer in Powell's lymph glands and upper right chest cavity.

But Powell was hospitalized again Nov. 27, 1962, for a brief time. Spokesmen said he was suffering from muscle spasms in his back growing out of a cold.

Three weeks later Dr. Sharpe revealed Powell was "a very sick man" apparently suffering from a new attack of cancer in the lower back.

Powell's first role was as a down-and-out crooner in "Blessed Event." His subsequent musical films included "42nd Street," "Gold Diggers of 1933" (also of 1935 and 1937).

By the late '50s he was producing as well, including "The Enemy Below."

Powell also had his own radio show, "Richard Diamond, Private Detective."

In 1952 he formed Four Star Television, Inc., with Charles Boyer and David Niven.

"Zane Grey Theater," "The Rifleman," "Black Saddle" and "Wanted Dead or Alive" were some of the series turned out by the fast-moving new company. Powell appeared in some of the shows as host.

He was married 3 times. The first, to Mildred Maund, preceded his Hollywood days and lasted 5 years.

In 1936 he married Joan Blondell. They had a daughter Ellen before they were divorced in 1944.

The next year Powell married June Allyson, 19 years his junior.

In 1961 Miss Allyson divorced Powell, charging extreme cruelty and testifying he was so busy with the television empire that he didn't come home to dinner.

They reconciled before the year's waiting period for the final decree had ended.

Brimful McConaughy Predicted

Holdrege (AP) — Lake McConaughy, which supplies irrigation water in whole or in part for more than 250,000 acres of land, is expected to be brimful by July 1.

Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District officials, operators of the lake, estimated that by that date it will contain 1,925,000 acre feet of water. This amount would make it possible to serve 252,159 acres without recharge for 7 years.

The McConaughy water supplies 122,159 acres within the Central District, and provides supplemental water for 130,000 along on-river canals in Keith, Lincoln, Dawson and Buffalo counties.

The water also runs 4 hydroelectric power plants producing a total of 80,000 kilowatts of electricity and provides cooling for Central's 100,000 kilowatt Canaday steam plant near Lexington.

The Choice For Mayor

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

City Council members are giving heavy thought these days to the selection of a mayor to succeed Bartlett E. (Pat) Boyles who has resigned to take an appointment as District Court judge. It would be unusual if considerable activity were not already centered on filling the city vacancy, despite the fact that it has received practically no public discussion. This is because the appointment of mayor has some of the familiar complications of past years plus an entirely new ingredient this time.

Times in the past when a mayor has been selected by the council, there has developed a split within the ranks of council members which forced the group to seek a candidate from outside their own group. It is possible that the same thing is true in the present situation with two and possibly three candidates for the job now on the City Council. None of these candidates will admit his interest in the position and his real interest is known only in his own mind, of course. While he has never said so, it has been believed that Councilman John Comstock would have liked to be mayor under the old system of government now drawing to a close.

Evidence Of Interest

How such a conclusion is reached is rather nebulous but it stems from the individual's attitude toward public life, his assessment of the handling of affairs by others and the opinion of people close to government. Thus, nobody knows for sure that Councilman Comstock ever wanted to be mayor but most people seem to think he leaned that way.

But any group such as the council is always possessed of many intricacies and conflicting personalities. This is the thing that would pit Councilman Dell Tyrrell against Comstock. Again, it is not known whether Tyrrell wants the job or not but the consensus has been that he would take it if it were offered to him.

Tyrrell is not considered to be particularly desirous of the position, however. But without any discredit to either man, it is highly unlikely that either of them could muster a majority vote at this moment. And strange things happen to people when they become involved in a personal contest. If the council should split three to three between Comstock and Tyrrell, it is possible that both of them might conclude that they would like to be appointed. This places them in a kind of competitive frame of mind as well as placing other members of the council in a somewhat fixed position. At least, such a thing has happened in the past and could easily happen again.

And a third candidate to consider is Mrs. Helen Boosalis. Again, the why of the situation is not an easy thing to define but Councilwoman Boosalis is not given much chance in the first flush of things. No one even knows, of course, whether she wants the job or would take it but initial thinking is that it would not be offered her. However, any split that could not be resolved in any other way could react to the benefit of Mrs. Boosalis. It is believed that Councilman Robert Fulton does not want the appointment and that Councilman Ed Becker and Lloyd Hinkley would run behind Mrs. Boosalis in the council voting. Whether Becker or Hinkley would want the job is, again, an unknown factor. The next step for the council would be to go outside its ranks and select a mayor to succeed Boyles.

The new element in the situation this time is the form of government the city will come under this coming summer. The next city election, in the summer of 1963, will call for the naming by voters of a full-time mayor for a four-year term at a salary of $15,000 a year. This has a substantial bearing on what will be done at this time by the City Council.

For one thing, present councilmen such as Tyrrell and Comstock may not be very inclined to fill the existing vacancy if they have no interest in the later full-time job. It is believed that both would have more interest in the job on the old basis than they have now with the position a full-time one. This points up the thing that has caused some concern with the full-time mayor plan.

Many candidates who would be interested in serving as mayor on a part-time basis are not interested on a full-time basis because the latter would cause them to give up their life's work. Obviously, most people will not give up a life's work for a temporary, full-time job. Nor is it known whether the council would like to appoint a mayor now who would run this summer for the full-time job. Anyone who was named to fill the current vacancy would, if he so desired it, have the inside track for election this summer to the new, full-time, four-year term. However, the council may or may not want to give anyone such an advantage.

Many Elements To Consider

Some members of the council may want an appointment now of someone who definitely will not run in the summer so as to leave the election free for the asking on the part of any and all hopefuls. In total, the situation is one marked with many uncertainties and complications but one the council will be called upon to settle with reasonable dispatch.

Senator Kerr

One of the first memorable events of 1963 was the unexpected death of Oklahoma's Senator Robert S. Kerr.

His departure from the public scene will change calculations of the forces that were expected to be brought to bear on the new Congress. It will not be greatly significant that his loss reduces at least temporarily the Democratic majority by one. The majority is a handsome one without him. But he was generally conceded to be the most influential senator in Washington.

Senator Kerr truly was a distinguished public figure. He was a man who was never found lacking during times of national stress. He was also never lacking in terms of Oklahoma's political welfare. It must be added that he gave comfort and strength to the entire Middle West. In a national scene where regional giants do battle and lesser solons live with the results it is a fact that the position of these midlands has now been weakened.

Senator Kerr was a story book figure, born in a shanty whose main advantage was a family of sterling character. He lived a life of self improvement, hacked out his education the hard way and carved an extraordinarily fruitful life out of flint rock. He was a classic example of individual initiative and individual growth.

The story of Sen. Kerr was in many respects the story of Oklahoma — a hard start in an unpromising environment. It is true that the discovery of oil, which not only aided the senator, but the state as well, ushered in opportunity. But the real rise of Oklahoma stemmed from the emergence of a generation of great leaders, men in a number of walks of life whose vision and works gave the state a new and productive philosophy. Sen. Kerr marched in the van of that generation.

Political Second Thoughts

First-round legislative action has provided what should be cause for some second-guessing in political matters on the part of some people. In the matter of redistricting of the Legislature, there were those who maintained that Lincoln and Omaha should agree to area rather than straight population representation in order to maintain the good will of the rest of the state. The idea was that Lincoln and Omaha would gain more in this way than they could even if they won the population-only plan for redistricting.

And the most outspoken leader of this cause was and is Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln. But Mrs. Orme's defense of the cause of outstate Nebraska was not enough to bring her victory in the first contest in which she was engaged — the contest for speaker of the Legislature. Here, the Legislature gave the honor to Omaha and Sen. William Moulton.

No one questions that Moulton will make a good speaker and the post is of little real significance, anyway, but his selection sort of sticks a pin in the balloon of those who thought they would buy a basket of good will with their area representation loyalties. The chips in the Legislature will fall where destiny puts them and where the facts bestow a favor, not where good will points.

Mrs. Orme's gift to the rest of the state has been a disproportionately heavy representation for it. The gift has and will continue to be accepted but one wonders when and how the kindness will ever be repaid. Those who chose to substitute a public relations plan for hard facts in the matter of redistricting have a long way to go to demonstrate the wisdom of their action.

Man Of Understanding

Credit Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina for stating the most satisfying resolution of the new year.

Speaking to the South he said, "We need our own and a new kind of emancipation proclamation which will set us free to grow and build, set us free from the drag of poor people, poor schools, from hate, from demagoguery."

Like a true Southerner the governor explains the distress and poverty of the South to the Reconstruction years, a position hard to argue against. But one cannot live on explanations. It takes sacrificial efforts to catch up and assume the lead. He would not abandon Southern education, but he points out that the child from the South can no longer think in terms of how good he might be in his own community . . . but must prepare himself to be a part of the world and a part of the dynamic new South.

It is good that the governor sees his home land in a clear light — its early history of national leadership; its resources. The South has two-third of all the land where annual rainfall is more than 40 inches. It produces 65 per cent of the nation's petroleum, 100 per cent of the bauxite, 53 per cent of the coal and 76 per cent of the natural gas.

The sermon is not exclusively for the South. There are many of us who did not suffer the injuries of Reconstruction who continue to live not fully enough, surrounded by resources we fail to develop, tolerating second rate education and second rate living because of a mental state, assuming the negative falsely believing it to be conservative.

A-Reactor Safety Held Questionable

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most important hearing in the recent development of atomic energy takes place today, regarding the operation of a nuclear power plant by Detroit Edison on the shores of Lake Erie, 30 miles southwest of densely populated Detroit.

The hearing is being held before the Atomic Safety and License Board of the Atomic Energy Commission to see whether the nuclear power plant, constructed by Detroit Edison and 14 affiliated companies at a cost of around $95,000,000 will finally be allowed to operate.

Reason why the hearing is so crucial is that on Dec. 12, just three weeks ago, the company experienced a serious accident when it tried to put sodium through the steam generators for the first time.

Prior to Dec. 12, the company had suffered a series of seven accidents which cost $2,500,000 and took about 18 months to remedy. Just as the company believed all the bugs had been ironed out, the most serious of all occurred on Dec. 12.

Reason for tomorrow's hearings is because the Detroit Edison accident is being compared with that which occurred in the British Windscale reactor in Cumberland County Oct. 11, 1957, which became so hot that Prime Minister Macmillan ordered it abandoned.

☆ ☆ ☆

According to the Manchester Guardian, the British accident spread radioactivity exceeding that which fell on Hiroshima over an area of western Europe 200 miles wide.

Officials of Detroit Edison deny that the accident at Laguna Beach, near Detroit, even remotely resembles the seriousness of the British incident. Several Detroit Edison representatives flew to Washington for conferences on Dec. 27 with Leo Goodman and Ben Sigal who represent the industrial division of the AFL-CIO, and are vigorously opposing the operating permit. The utility representatives argued that having experienced the accident, they now understood the problems, and were in a better position to proceed.

However, the testimony which will be brought out before the AEC board will show that Adm. Hyman Rickover junked the sodium type reactor for atomic submarines, and used the less dangerous water-cooled reactor instead.

In the Nautilus which Rickover built with Westinghouse, he used a water-cooled reactor. But General Electric, in building the second sub, the Sea Wolf, tried the sodium-cooled reactor, which produces energy quicker but is more dangerous. Finally Rickover intervened and scrapped the sodium-cooled technique for the Sea Wolf.

The trouble with the Detroit Edison project, according to nuclear experts, is that it was designed to produce plutonium as a by product. Plutonium was once in great demand for the manufacture of atomic bombs, but now that the United States has a huge atomic stockpile, is almost a drug on the market. A sodium-cooled reactor is efficient for plutonium manufacture.

The history of the Laguna Beach reactor is complicated and partly involved in politics. It goes back to Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace proposal at the United Nations in 1953. It was a great speech, but afterward no one rushed forward to use atoms for peace.

The price agreed upon for plutonium was $48 a gram, despite the fact that the British were paying $12 a gram and the public price in the United States was later established at $30. Congress, incidentally, is expected to set the price at about $8 a gram.

Trouble Does Strike Twice; Player Piano Revival Proof

NEW YORK—It should come as no surprise, in these days of synthetic culture, to learn that the player piano is making a smashing comeback.

And there has been a great "improvement" in at least one model. It has no foot pedals — pumping is work, who needs it? All you do is press a button to make the keys bounce and the tinkles tink. Look Ma, no hands, no feet, no work, no talent.

I obviously have a blighted personality, to go with my tin ear, because I can't understand the charm of this quaint revival. Player pianos are homely to look at, nerve-tingling to listen to, bulky to have and to hold, and difficult to pay for, even in easy monthly installments. The cost of a good (if there is such a thing) player piano could buy years of old-fashioned piano lessons for the kiddies—but of course piano lessons require work, patience, sensitivity and all 10 fingers, which some parents feel is a great deal to ask of the modern American child.

In the old days, before we became a take-it-easy society, we cooked our dinners instead of thawing them, blew our own horns instead of just listening to Louis Prima's, and insisted our kids take music lessons even when they'd rather have been out driving cars, playing ball or loafing. Piano lessons and violin lessons took years of time and frustration, and traditionally children have fought it. But in the days of my youth, parents realized music lessons were a proven method for teaching a youth patience and diligence, as well as offering him an appreciation of beauty.

So we all "took" something. We loved it or hated it at the time, but none of us grew to adulthood without thanking God and mother we'd been forced into creating our own little center of culture.

☆ ☆ ☆

In those days, the player piano was considered old-hat, ridiculous, and a bad influence on the inclinations of youngsters.

So today it's making a comeback. Heigh ho. I'm sure it's all in fun — expensive fun — but there's a danger, perhaps, to bringing the player piano back into the home, on looking on it with kindly affection again.

If I were a child again, struggling with my Bach two-part inventions, I would not be too happy to see daddy sit down at the player, push a button, and get "Claire De Lune" without lifting a knuckle. I think I'd resolve never again to subject myself to the torture of a scale.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cataract in my left eye, and about all I can do is distinguish light from darkness. Is this likely to develop in my right eye? What are the causes and treatment of cataracts?—E.D.W.

Molner

Let's not blink at the facts. When one eye gets a cataract, the other is likely to do so—not always, but usually. However, they don't as a rule develop at the same time or speed. Thus it is possible to correct the poorer eye, and have it serviceable again by the time it is necessary to operate on the other one.

A "cataract" is a cloudy condition in the lens of the eye which lies just behind the pupil. The cloudiness comes on so gradually, as a rule, that for a long time it isn't noticed.

Causes are varied, but in general cataracts develop after the age of 50. True, there are "congenital cataracts" in children, but they are rather rare.

Diabetes and faulty calcium metabolism can be associated with cataracts. Early treatment of these diseases is; hence, very important.

Sometimes injury to an eye causes a cataract.

And people exposed to excessive heat may develop them.

There's a wide difference in the rate at which cataracts progress. Some do not reach the stage of loss of sight — in such cases eye medications to dilate the pupil make up sufficiently for impaired vision.

There is no way, however, to stop development of cataracts once they have started.

Where necessary, surgery is the only method of restoring sight, but this is so successful these days that there is no reason to dread having it done.

An eye specialist keeps track of the situation — people with cataracts always should have periodic examination. Removal should be at the doctor's discretion. He will, logically, do it earlier if the patient has to do close work, such as accounting. Another might wait.

It may then be a matter of years, perhaps, before the other eye requires the same thing.

Use of glasses makes up for the absence of the cloudy lens. And recently contact lenses have been developed for people having some particular need for that type.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a grandson, 12, who turns black and blue very easily, even just wrestling with other boys. Is that bad? Shall I take him to a doctor?—MRS. J.K.

It is something that may or may not be serious, and yes, I would have him checked carefully. Possibilities include lack of calcium, some nutritional matter, or even some serious defect in the blood, as a lack of enough platelets, or particles which are necessary for healing.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is almost 16 but has hardly grown at all for two years, and is not very large for his age. He also has a very dry skin. Do you think he has some thyroid trouble? —MRS. K.I.

It's possible. There are other causes of dry skin, and there certainly are other causes of not growing as tall as one might prefer. Within very narrow margins, our height is governed by heredity rather than anything that happens later. It's also well known that some boys and girls get their height early; others have a growing spurt later. It isn't too intricate a task to have the boy's thyroid, and other glandular activity, checked. If it is faulty, now's the time to start treatment. If it's normal, then accept the fact that he'll be as tall or as short as nature intends him to be, and that there's still time for him to do some more growing.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man close to 50. Recently microscopic blood was found in my urine. One doctor suggested going to the hospital for a cystoscopic examination. Another recommended a kidney X-ray which he called an "intravenous pyelogram." What is your opinion?—G. M.

I'm sure that either would be useful, and blood in the urine always should be investigated. If you find it in microscopic quantities, that's fine, because you're catching the trouble, whatever it is, earlier than you would if you could see the blood.

My opinion is that the cystoscopic examination gives more detailed information, since it permits visual observation of the wall of the bladder, and allows urine to be collected from each kidney separately, helping to determine the exact source of bleeding. Then a dye is inserted and X-rays taken—giving the same data as the intravenous pyelogram.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses reader's letters in his column whenever possible.

Drastic Step

Indianapolis, Ind.

That recent Grand Island School Board decision to refuse tuition students in the future was like burning down a new house to get rid of a mouse. Why penalize everyone because of the wrongs of a small minority? It doesn't make sense.

Teacher Retirement

Lincoln, Neb.

As last year was nearing its end, I believe most of us felt thankful for the merits of labor that we received through 1962, but this feeling was certainly marred after reading news articles regarding retirement for the city teachers.

This can mean only one thing, and that is, more taxes. Last year it was more money for their salaries, more money for a full-time mayor, more money for our legislators. This all came to pass with more money from taxes. Now our good legislators have just convened in session and already it is beginning. Just how much money can these people bleed from the taxpayers of this state? I was always under the impression that our legislators are acting for the good of the majority. Are the school teachers the majority?

It seems as though our legislators can do nothing else but think up ideas on how to raise salaries and enact retirement programs for city employes. Then this happens and it seems to happen with every session. We the majority who pay for these raises must tighten our belts, sacrifice the few pleasures we may be planning on in order to meet these raises in taxes. Will there ever be a legislator who has enough nerve and conviction to introduce and convince his fellow legislators to support another type of tax? Why not the sales tax? This would affect every resident of the state, not just the few who try to own a home and contribute to the beauty of the state of Nebraska. It is getting so that owning a home is a form of persecution through taxes.

A few days ago, our honorable mayor remarked about losing a city engineer and laid part of the fault on his low salary—his "low salary" of $9,000. This is a low salary? I'm sure there are plenty of engineers who would welcome filling the position at that salary.

It would be interesting to know how many times a resident left Lincoln because of the increase in the cost of living due to high taxes. There will always be a turnover because of higher salaries elsewhere and it is folly always to blame salaries for this type of loss.

I am sure there will always be teachers willing to teach in Lincoln in our present system. Anyone desiring to better his retirement can always do what most of us not on the city payroll must do—supplement his retirement with a private program of his own. Let's try making these people a little more self-sufficient and not always leaning on the taxpayers.

Exercise Urged

Omaha, Neb.

The Nebraska Heart Association urges Cornhuskers to adopt a resolution for 1963 to get the regular exercise needed to improve their health. We recommend this common-sense approach to exercise:

(1) Select a form of exercise compatible with age and physical condition.

(2) Choose an exercise that is liked. The idea is to fit physical exercise into the daily routine and then add some weekly activities like bowling, roller-skating, tennis, swimming, golf or other in-season sports.

(3) Work out a reasonable schedule and try to let nothing interfere.

(4) Be prudent. Work up to these exertions gradually by daily moderate exercise.

(5) Do more walking and less riding.

(6) Begin the exercise routine with a walk to the doctor's office for a physical examination. He will know if some forms of exercise should be avoided.

(7) Try that most difficult form of exercise—pushing away from the table to avoid obesity.

The Switch

Newark, N.J.

In 1945 Russia enjoyed prestige. But its leaders began to act with immeasurable stupidity. They began to be aggressive and spurred the United States to rearm and thus started an arms race with the West. Had Russia conducted a peace offensive, it might have fooled us into feeling utterly secure.

We are for peace, but what is going to happen to our capitalistic economy when the cold war appropriations of $2 billion a year need no longer be poured into the hoppers of the mechanisms which produce the war material? It is frightening. The Soviets and their allies in Asia will be in the offing, gloating at our discomfiture. They will wonder why they did not jabber peace before.

But we have faith in our Americana. When the pinch comes, we will act with wisdom. We will switch the war orders to orders for schools, roads, well-being, for the attainment of an upper middle class society. We will still have to spend, but we will spend for our own children's weal, instead of appeasing the war gods.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Round-The-World Travel Soon To Be Commonplace

By ROBERT PETERSON

A mere half century ago not one in a thousand Americans had seen both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. But thanks to widening prosperity and faster, cheaper modes of travel, seeing both oceans is a fait accompli nowadays for many by the time they're 21.

Today, not one in a thousand Americans has been around the world. But in a few decades round-the-world travel is sure to be commonplace, and we'll be talking as casually of Paris and Papeete as we talk today of Pittsburgh and Paducah.

This past year 50,000 Americans went around the world — more than 90% of them in jet planes. And next year an estimated 55,000 will take this crown jewel of earthly travels.

Currently, the lowest air fare to circle the globe is $1,253. But starting next spring the major U.S. air carriers hope to be offering special rates for groups of 15 or more which will bring the fare per person to less than $1,000.

☆ ☆ ☆

My essential reading includes a tiny magazine called Freighter Travel News published by R. J. Clark way out in landlocked Caldwell, Idaho. Its 8 pages monthly consist largely of letters written by peregrinating subscribers — a good many of whom are retired—describing sights and conditions encountered on freighter trips to far-flung ports.

The letters contain unedited, first-person accounts of the awe these wanderers have experienced sailing into Hong Kong harbor at dusk, floating up the Nile on a barge, watching the Thai dancers of Bangkok, and photographing wildlife at the Nairobi Game Reserve.

Sometimes the letters are near masterpieces of prose. Here's one by William J. Neisel who writes, "Some who jet-hop an ocean overnight claim the sea is a bore. But I wonder if they have ever really seen it in its many wondrous moods. Consider the range of color. There is the icy gray of the wintry North Atlantic, the beautiful azure blue of the water on a bright day in the middle latitudes, and the incredible turquoise of the tropics.

"Consider the ceaseless motion of the sea. The gentle, rolling blue waves of the south; the towering combers of the northern storms; the graceful ballet of the whitecaps on a windy day with their skirts fluttering in the breeze.

"Consider the clouds—at times dully gray, at others sparkling white, pink, blue and violet. Freighter travel can only be boring if we fail to look at what is around us. We don't need floating night clubs or horseracing on deck to keep us happy . . . sit quietly in a deck chair and look at the sea and sky and clouds. At any hour new experiences offer themselves. One returns from a freighter voyage refreshed—and possessed of wider horizons of the spirit than one ever dreamed possible."

A few issues ago Clark's newsletter reported that a couple could retire to freighter travel and circle the globe indefinitely with total traveling and living costs of $560 a month. In the current issue a Mr. and Mrs. Art Chase write that the figure is not quite accurate. They say they're been circling the world now for 7 months and costs have averaged out to $560.41 a month!

New Legislation Needed To Cover Searches, Seizures

A good deal of legislation is needed to cover searches and seizures in accordance with a U.S. Supreme Court decision on the subject, State Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer said Wednesday.

But Meyer said his office is afraid to move too fast lest it complicate the situation. "We want to make sure," he said.

Evidence obtained by illegal search and seizure cannot be used in court, according to a decision by the nation's highest court. Nebraska has no laws on this subject and since the court decision came since the 1961 Legislature adjourned, this is the first time the state has had a chance to enact correctional legislation.

Meyer said one bill will be introduced to cover the procedural aspects of search and seizure.

The attorney general noted that the Nebraska Supreme Court recently reversed a possession of narcotics conviction by the Dakota District Court on the grounds evidence used in the case was obtained illegally. Meyer said the state has decided not to appeal the case.

He said law enforcement officials throughout the state are aware of the problem. "I am pleased with the work they are doing to meet the challenge," he said.

The attorney general said the question is: "What will the Supreme Court of the United States permit states to do in the way of legislation in the area of search and seizures?"

He said it will probably be years before the law in this area is fully developed.

Chocolatey Party Pie

Chocolate enjoys the popularity of a movie queen. You find it in all manner of sweets from cakes and cookies to puddings and pies. Yet among all the chocolatey desserts served at kaffeeklatsches, there is seldom a chocolate pie shell to be seen.

Being as partial to chocolate as the next person, we decided to remedy this situation. The result is a crunchy dark pie crust made with sweet cocoa, special enough to deserve a luscious orange chiffon filling.

ORANGE CHIFFON PIE
With Chocolate Crust

⅓ cup sweet milk cocoa powder
½ cup shortening
¼ cup boiling water
1⅓ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup orange juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar, divided
2 tablespoons grated orange peel

Blend together sweet milk cocoa and shortening in mixing bowl. Stir in boiling water. Sift in flour and salt, and mix quickly just until dough holds together. Form into ball and roll out between waxed paper. Fit into 9-inch pie plate. Prick pastry closely with fork on bottom and sides. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes. Cool. Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Beat egg yolks until light. Stir in fruit juices, salt and ½ cup sugar. Cook and stir over hot, not boiling, water until thickened. Chill until syrupy. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Beat in remaining sugar gradually. Fold in orange peel. Fold egg white mixture into gelatine mixture. Spoon into pastry shell. Chill until firm. Top with whipped cream and garnish with drained canned mandarin orange sections.

Hasty Chili For A Brisk Day

Steaming bowls of chili on a brisk day will certainly be greeted with enthusiasm by young and old alike. Though many chili recipes call for hours of cooking and special preparations, this idea for Hasty Chili takes a minimum of time and effort, and the results are so tasty!

Thrifty ground beef forms the basis. Convenient tomatoes and canned kidney beans are included with onion, chili powder, salt and cayenne pepper. The seasonings may be varied to suit personal wishes.

After the ground beef has browned in a heavy utensil, the remaining ingredients are added to the pan. That's all! Just let the chili simmer slowly. You're free to do other tasks, for no watching is needed.

You'll want to remember Hasty Chili when guests are invited for a casual meal. Even your teenagers will find this recipe extra quick and easy and will enjoy preparing it for the gang.

HASTY CHILI

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 small onions, chopped
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) tomatoes
1 can (16 ounces) kidney beans
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons chili powder
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Cook ground beef in lard or drippings until lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Add onions, tomatoes, beans, salt, chili powder and cayenne pepper. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Water may be added, if desired, and the seasonings adjusted to taste. 4 to 6 servings.

Artichoke Appetizers

Marinated Artichokes
(Makes about 8 servings)

4 artichokes
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon salt

Wash artichokes, trim to 1 inch, pull off tough outer leaves and snip off tips of remaining leaves. Place artichokes in 1 inch of boiling water. Sprinkle ¼ teaspoon salt over each artichoke. Cover tightly and cook 20 to 45 minutes, or until stem can easily be pierced with a fork (depending upon size of the artichokes). Remove artichokes and turn upside down immediately to drain. Cut artichokes in quarters and remove stem.

Combine remaining ingredients and mix. Cook tomato mixture over low heat 15 minutes. Pour tomato mixture over artichokes and chill 3 hours, turning occasionally.

Oven-Good

DATE BRAIDED COFFEE CAKE
(Makes 2 coffee cakes)

Sweet Dough

¾ cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup (1 stick) margarine or butter
½ cup warm water (105 - 115 F.)
2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
1 egg
4 cups unsifted flour

Filling and Topping

2 cups chopped dates
½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups water
1 cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons milk
⅓ cup unsifted flour
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

To make dough, scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and margarine or butter. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in luke-warm milk mixture, egg and half the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a stiff batter. Cover tightly with waxed paper or aluminum foil. Refrigerate dough at least 2 hours, or up to 3 days.

Before time to shape dough, combine pitted dates, brown sugar, water, chopped nuts and lemon juice in saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Continue boiling until mixture is thick enough to spread, about 8 minutes. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half into a 16 x 8-inch oblong. Place oblongs on greased baking sheets. Spread half the date filling down center third of each oblong. Cut 15 slits in dough along each side of filling, making strips at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Combine egg yolk and milk. Brush cakes with mixture. Combine flour, margarine, 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle half of mixture on each cake. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

Spicy Yam Pudding

LOUISIANA YAM-FIG STEAMED PUDDING

1 cup dried figs, chopped
1 cup seedless raisins
1¾ cups milk
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, well beaten
3 cups cooked mashed Louisiana yams
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Combine dried figs, raisins and milk in top of double boiler. Cook, covered, over boiling water 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Sift together flour, sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt. Combine fig mixture with flour mixture; blend. Add eggs, yams and orange rind; mix well. Turn into well-greased 1½ quart mold or casserole. Cover tightly and place on rack in large saucepan; fill saucepan with water so that bottom half of mold is immersed. Cover tightly and steam over medium heat 2 hours. Allow to cool slightly before unmolding.

Orange Hard Sauce for Yam-Fig Steamed Pudding

⅓ cup softened butter or margarine
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon orange extract

Beat butter or margarine until creamy. Gradually blend in sugar and orange extract. Beat until well blended. Chill. Serve with Yam-Fig Steamed Pudding.

After-The-Holiday Casserole

After numerous turkey menus it's only natural that you will want variety in the meals you serve, whether they're for the family or guests. Bright touches can pick up jaded appetites in a tasty way after the recent holidays.

Let's take a look at Canadian-style bacon. You can find scores of serving ideas for this cured meat other than at the breakfast table. Let's put it in combination with typical, seasonal foods such as squash and cranberries. The end result is Canadian-style Bacon — Squash Casserole, a colorful, tasty treat for a family or company supper.

Preparation requires very few steps. Convenient, frozen squash is called for, and the pecans, which add an unusual texture note, may frequently be purchased already chopped.

You can prepare Canadian style bacon by slicing and pan-broiling, broiling or baking in casseroles. Or it may be roasted as a piece.

Another interesting way of serving Canadian-style bacon is with a fruit sauce or fruit fritters.

CANADIAN-STYLE BACON SQUASH CASSEROLE

6 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut ½ inch thick
2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen cooked squash, thawed
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup fresh cranberries, cut in half
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans

Grease a 1½-quart casserole. Combine squash, sugars, pecans. Pour mixture into casserole. Top with bacon slices. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. 6 servings.

Easy Squash And Bacon

MASHED WINTER SQUASH WITH BACON TOPPING

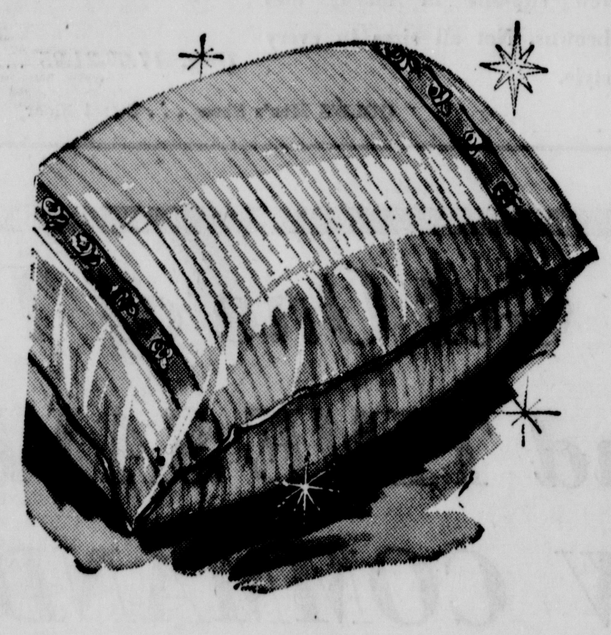

4 cups cooked mashed hard shell winter squash (Hubbard, buttercup or butternut)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
3 strips crisp bacon

To cook squash the easy way, wash, leave whole and place in a large saucepan with boiling water to cover. Cook, covered, until tender. Cooking time depends upon size of squash. Remove squash from water and cut it in half. Scrape out seeds and stringy portion and discard them. Scoop out cooked squash and mash. Add salt, black pepper, sugar, butter or margarine and bacon drippings. Mix well. Turn into a serving dish. Sprinkle top with crumbled crisp bacon. Serve hot.

YIELD: 6 servings.

Mississippians Seek Court Order To Stop Voting Interference

Washington (AP)—Eight Mississippi residents, one a white attorney, asked a federal court Wednesday to order Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to arrest any Mississippi law enforcement officer interfering with Negro voting.

The suit also named FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. It cited civil rights laws enacted during Reconstruction and a new law passed by the last congress as authority for such an order.

Attorney William M. Kunstler of New York said the action was prompted, in part, by the effective use of federal marshals in the enrollment of James Meredith, a Negro, at the University of Mississippi last fall.

Dangerous

Mounting violence since the Meredith case, he said, makes it too dangerous for a Negro to have to wait while an individual case is appealed to the Supreme Court.

The suit in district court here is an attempt at more direct action, he said.

All of the plaintiffs cited instances where they said they had been harassed by law enforcement officers. Four of them, including the white attorney, William L. Higgs, appeared at a news conference to describe their experiences.

Higgs said he was arrested last summer by police in Clarksdale, Miss., while acting as counsel to a Negro candidate for Congress in the area.

He said he and 4 students were picked up after leaving a political rally, held for 20 hours and finally released without charges being filed when newspapers came upon the story.

"I was questioned for two hours," Higgs said. "Most of the questions were such as, 'would you like your daughter to marry a nigger? Don't you know you are a traitor?' that sort of thing."

Threatened

Higgs said several deputy sheriffs threatened to "get rid of him" and he was told by the sheriff never to return to Coahoma County if he valued his life. He added that he came back the following week and made a speech without incident.

The suit asked the judge to order Kennedy to direct U.S. attorneys in Mississippi to institute immediate criminal proceedings against state and local law enforcement officers involved in the instances cited in the petition and to continue to prosecute in such future instances "any other persons . . . who are responsible for the deprivation of the constitutional rights of plaintiffs and other citizens of Mississippi."

Higgs, a resident of Jackson, Miss., was one of the attorneys for Meredith. He described himself as the only who will handle civil rights white attorney in Mississippi cases.

Authority for federal action in such cases, he said, comes from an old civil rights statute which said federal officials "are authorized and required at the expense of the United States to institute prosecution against all persons violating" the civil rights of U.S. citizens.

Higgs added that a mandamus (ordering action) act passed by the last Congress extends to all district judges the power "to compel an officer or employe of the United States to perform a duty owed to the plaintiff."

Reddish Brothers Bid Low On City Tractors—$5,384

Reddish Bros. was the apparent low bidder at $5,383.62 on two tractors for the park and golf departments, city officials said Wednesday.

Only other bidder on the tractors was Parsons Machinery Co. at $5,590.

Other apparent low bids:

—Dobson Bros. Construction Co., $2,985, for Sewer District 740 for Pioneers Blvd., Daniel Road, and Lowell Ave. from 36th to 37th; other bidder, H. R. Bookstrom Construction, $3,078.

—International Harvester Co., $1,498, for half-ton pickup truck with trade for the golf department; other bidders, O'Shea-Rogers, $1,589, and Misle Chevrolet, $1,733.

—O'Shea-Rogers Motor Co., $2,242, for 1½-ton truck (cab and chassis) for the sewer department; other bidders, International Harvester, $2,288.41, and Misle, $2,358.

Recommendations on the bids will go Monday to the City Council.

Ideological Struggling Kept Quiet

Tokyo (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Communist China kept their ideological dispute in low key in new year's greetings published Wednesday in the party press.

But the contrast in their stands on the United States made it plain that the differences between Peking's tough line and Moscow's peaceful coexistence are as wide as ever.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in his new year's message to President Kennedy published in Wednesday's Izvestia, appealed for "a joint effort in bettering the international situation, in the interests of all mankind."

But Peking's New China News Agency charged that the United States is "stepping up its aggressive activities against Cuba" and repeated that "U.S. imperialism is the most ferocious enemy of the Cuban and other peoples of the world."

Both Communist giants gave new pledges of support for Cuba. The Soviet Union will "never leave Cuba in the lurch," the armed forces newspaper Red Star said. "Revolutionary Cuba will not remain defenseless."

"The Chinese and Cuban peoples will forever remain loyal comrades in arms and share their weals and woes," the New China Agency said. "The Chinese people will do everything in their power to support their Cuban brothers . . . Until they win complete and final victory."

The annual exchange of new year's good wishes, as in former years, consisted largely of a collection of generalities that did not touch on the dispute.

Khrushchev told Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze-tung Russia "will spare no effort so that the fraternal friendship between the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic should strengthen and develop for the good of our peoples." Mao expressed similor sentiments.

'SoPac RR Should Pay Fired Clerks'

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP) — A presidential board proposed Wednesday that Southern Pacific Railroad clerks who lose jobs to automation be paid benefits from the payroll savings that accrue to the company.

Such "furlough benefits," coupled with railroad unemployment insurance, would be paid by Southern Pacific and provide displaced workers 70% of regular earnings for up to one year.

An additional period of payments at 60% of regular wages would follow.

These proposals, plus other suggestions for easing the plight of clerks losing their jobs, were submitted to President Kennedy at the winter White House here during the New Year's holiday and released by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger Wednesday.

They will become the basis for renewed negotiations between Southern Pacific and the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes, AFL-CIO.

The union threatened a strike against Southern Pacific last year, claiming more than 4,500 jobs have been eliminated during the past 4 years.

The board rejected union suggestions for slowing the pace of lay-offs, saying this would endanger even more jobs by hurting the competitive position of the railroads.

HOUSES SLIDING DOWN THE BLUFF

The swimming pool remains uncracked, but these two expensive homes in the Brentwood section of Los Angeles were demolished Wednesday as they slid slowly down a hillside. Police estimated their value at $40,000 to $50,000 each as of Tuesday. The slide appears to be caused by slippage at the base of a sloping bluff which is out of picture at left. Officers said these two homes and 7 others have slipped about two feet an hour since the trouble began early Wednesday.

Student Admits Stealing Officer's Cap; He's Jailed

Police jailed a 19-year-old University of Nebraska student Wednesday night after he admitted stealing a police officer's cap while the officer was eating supper at Valentino's Pizza, 3457 Holdrege, on the night of Nov. 21.

Lt. Reynold McMeen said the youth told him he committed the theft "just for the thrill of stealing a policeman's cap."

The cap belonged to Officer Larry Dvorak and had been taken from a rack at the restaurant while he and a fellow officer were eating, McKeen said.

The officer who made the arrest after a confidential tip is still hoping he'll get a tip leading him to his own headgear. Officer Hollis Jennings had his motorcycle crash helmet taken while he was working as an off-duty officer at Don and Millie's Cafe, 21st and M, on Nov. 3 or 4.

Man Police Pursued Pleads Innocent To Reckless Count

Robert D. Crewdson, 23, of 1921 L, the object of a lengthy chase by a police detective Tuesday night, pleaded innocent Wednesday to reckless driving charges.

Crewdson was charged in Municipal Court with reckless driving in such a manner as to endanger life, limb and personal property.

Detective Arthur Aksamit said he pursued Crewdson at speeds up to 110 miles per hour before stopping him on a county road west of Lincoln.

Aksamit said he began the chase when he spotted the Crewdson auto travelling at a high rate of speed at about 30th and O.

Police said during the chase a number of traffic signals were violated and at least 5 cars were forced off the road. One man told police his two small children were thrown to the floor of his car when he swerved to avoid the speeding auto.

Aksamit said the chase went south on 33rd, west on D, across a field in Antelope Park, and northwest on Capital Pkwy. to 18th.

After jogging several times, Aksamit said, Crewdson sped south on 16th to South St., and then drove west out of the city.

Crewdson finally stopped and was arrested on a county road several miles west of Lincoln and about a mile south of O St., Aksamit said.

Marvel Outlines Views

. . . ANALYSIS KEY TO BUDGET DECISIONS

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Budget Committee Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings Wednesday issued a statement outlining his views on that committee's role in the structure of state government, and the belief that its members "should not join the ranks of those who want either economy or spending as an end in itself."

"Don't economice just to economize, or spend just to be spending, and say this is progress," Marvel suggested as the powerful committee began its 1963 session with a 2½-hour meeting.

Marvel cited the interim budget committee report to the Legislative Council in which it was stated that the "Legislature has the sole responsibility for establishing guidelines on state governmental agency programs and service standards."

Committee's Job

It is the committee's job to gather facts from the departments, make policy decisions after due consultation with the departments, make recommendations to the Legislature which provides the money and turns it over to the administrative branch of government to spend under the guidelines set by the Legislature, he said.

Hearings before the Budget Committee give the state their requests for funds, and it is "their job and responsibility to cooperate with the Legislature in making government more effective and efficient," he added.

Marvel also suggested that the committee should consider a governor's budget recommendations in their proper perspective and realize that he has neither the time nor the staff to properly analyze the budget requests.

He emphasized this was not a criticism of either Gov. Frank Morrison or State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson, but simply a recognition of reality and the problem they are up against in making executive recommendations.

He also cited the need for informing and clarifying for the taxpayers the needs and programs of state government, for the taxpayers "are the ones who must provide the funds to carry out the programs as provided by the Legislature."

The committee approved the introduction of routine bills dealing with legislative expenses, and for a bill which would remove the present $200,000 ceiling on state matching of federal funds for aid to the mentally disabled.

Welfare Department Director Frank Woods said the department has sufficient state funds to match the share of aid for the mentally disabled, but needs only the authority to spend the money.

The department was not able to make the payments in December, and the counties are now taking care of the 440 cases in this category, Woods said.

Plans Disclosed For Array Of Bills

Nebraska lawmakers Wednesday revealed plans to introduce an array of bills in the fields of taxation, legislative reapportionment, public power, education and traffic safety.

Carpenter

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said he will introduce legislation to change the basis of livestock taxation from a form of property levy to a transaction tax.

Under his proposal, livestock would be taxed "whenever it is sold," Carpenter said, rather than on a single assessment date.

Such a plan would operate similar to the present grain tax, he noted.

The present system actually retards growth of the cattle industry in Nebraska, Carpenter said. His tax change would allow full development of the livestock potential in this state and benefit Nebraska's economy, he declared.

Meanwhile, Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth said he expects a research report on reapportionment of the Unicameral to be ready for study early next week.

The survey is being conducted on a basis of 20% to 25% weight to area, the senator noted.

Most legislators appear to be in substantial agreement on such a percentage spread, Ruhnke said, despite the fact that Nebraska voters have authorized the Legislature to apply as much as 30% weight to area.

Best Blend

In drawing a redistricting bill, the major problem still involves finding a blending which will meet constitutional requirements and still disturb as few legislative district boundaries as possible, Ruhnke pointed out.

Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, chairman of the Government and Military Affairs Committee, said he presently favors "no definite plan" for reapportionment.

Bowen's committee presumably will hear all redistricting proposals.

"The main thing will be to figure out what is best for the state," he noted.

'Calm Down First'

"But the first thing we must do is overcome some of the personal feelings and do away with some of the tempers. When people are mad, it is difficult to compromise to any degree."

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington said he will be one of the sponsors of a bill to realign the state's electric generation and transmission agencies into 5 areas.

The proposal would be an alternative to a legislative plan to merge all wholesale public power districts in the eastern two-thirds of the state, excluding the Omaha Public Power District.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said he plans to introduce a bill providing state aid to education. Details of the proposal have not yet been worked out, he said.

Bowen

Ruhnke

Sen. M. M. Forrester of Anselmo forecast legislative approval of a measure providing that factories must install seat belts in cars before they are delivered to Nebraska.

Forrester said he will also urge passage of a bill making compulsory semi-annual inspeciton of motor vehicles.

In organizational meetings Wednesday, the following committee vice chairmen were elected: Budget, Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City; Government and Military Affairs, Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln; Education, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly.

SEN. BRANDT TO INTRODUCE UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE

Sen. William Brandt of Unadilla said Wednesday he will introduce in the Legislature Thursday a bill establishing a "Uniform Commercial Code" in Nebraska.

The same code already has been adopted by 18 states, he said.

The code, he reported, is designed to simplify, clarify and modernize the law governing commercial transactions, permit continual expansion of commercial practices through custom, usage and agreement of the parties, and make uniform the law among the various jurisdictions.

"Fortunately, Nebraska has a firm base of prior uniform laws and uniquely sound case law upon which to base adoption of the uniform commercial code," Sen. Brandt said.

As a result, he said, "there will be a minimum of dislocation of existing balances between those entitled to security for obligations, general creditors and debtors when the code is enacted."

Bridenbaugh After Road Law Change

A resolution calling for a complete recodification of Nebraska's highway safety laws may be introduced in the 1963 Legislature by veteran Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City.

Bridenbaugh confirmed that he will attempt to gain approval of the resolution, which would in effect ask that an interim study committee be set up to look into all existing highway safety laws.

"I think the 1962 Nebraska traffic fatality toll was appalling," Bridenbaugh said, "and some constructive action by the Legislature should be taken."

Bridenbaugh said he considered introducing a bill calling for a complete overhaul of Nebraska's safety laws, "but the bill drafter informed me that such a measure was too complicated and would take more time."

Bridenbaugh said it is his thinking that the present safety laws are not uniform with those of other states.

"Each state, Nebraska included, has their own traffic laws designed to meet only their own needs. The other fellow is forgotten about," he said.

"Take a look at the fatality toll record in Nebraska this year and you will see that a lot of the accidents involved out-of-state drivers."

Sen. McGinley's Impressive Stack Maps Redistricts

Memo to Nebraska state senators:

That impressive stack of maps in Sen. Don McGinley's brief case has to do with a legislative redistricting measure but if others have similar proposals, "we might be able to work together on a suitable bill."

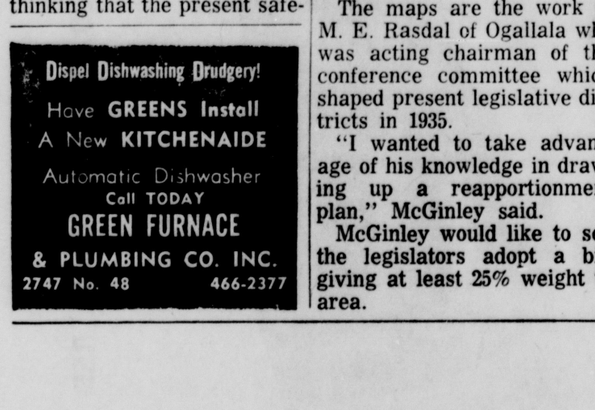

The maps are the work of M. E. Rasdal of Ogallala who was acting chairman of the conference committee which shaped present legislative districts in 1935.

"I wanted to take advantage of his knowledge in drawing up a reapportionment plan," McGinley said.

McGinley would like to see the legislators adopt a bill giving at least 25% weight to area.

Terry Would Like To Back Goldwater

. . . ONLY FOR NOMINATION

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Wednesday night he'd like to go to the 1964 Republican national convention as a Goldwater Republican, although "I disagree with just about everything he says or does."

What he has in mind, he said, is a once-and-for-all showdown on Republican Party conservatism as represented by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

"I'd like to make a test case of it," said Carpenter, interviewed by a panel of newsmen on a televised "Face Nebraska" program (KOLN-TV, Lincoln, and KGIN-TV, Grand Island).

'Nothing to Lose'

Carpenter said the Republican Party stands little chance to win the 1964 presidential election anyway and there would be "everything to gain and nothing to lose" by putting the Goldwater philosophy to the test.

Carpenter, a former Democrat turned Republican, complained that the GOP attempts to embrace divergent political philosophies and indicated he believes that some form of the welfare state "is here to stay."

"I don't think Mr. Goldwater himself believes everything he says," the senator suggested.

As a delegate to the GOP national convention in 1956, Carpenter attracted national attention by nominating a mythical Joe Smith for the vice presidency. The nod went to Richard Nixon.

More Taxes

Carpenter reported Wednesday night also that he will introduce in the Legislature a bill to increase the state parimutuel betting tax from 2 to 6%. He proposes that the estimated $1.5 million a year in added revenue be plowed into statewide educational television (ETV) development with the University of Nebraska in charge.

He said the ETV network should be set up within 18 months and should not be allowed to drag on for 10 years.

Carpenter also said he will introduce a legislative resolution to bring about a Supreme Court test of the tax exempt status of Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben.

STATE WELFARE OUTGO TOTALS $20.8 MILLION

Some 20,000 Nebraskans received a total of $20.8 million in welfare payments during the year ending June 30, the State Welfare Department reported Wednesday.

It was $295,086, or 1.4%, more than the Welfare Department disbursed for aid the previous fiscal year.

The payments were made for old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind and aid to the disabled. They include county unmatched vendor payments.

Old-age assistance payments, although less than the previous year, still accounted for 63% of aid received during the 1961-62 fiscal year.

ADC Jumps 9%

Expenditures under the aid to dependent children (ADC) program totaled $4.6 million, 22% of the total and 9% more than the previous year.

"In general," the report said, "the payment per recipient for subsistence shows decreases ranging from 14 cents in aid to dependent children to $1.02 in old-age, while the payment per recipient for medical care shows increases ranging from 13 cents in aid to dependent children to $4.22 in aid to the disabled."

The total number of cases receiving aid, 20,000, was 722 fewer than in the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The report noted that last year's total assistance cases showed a decrease of 1,259 compared with the year ending in June 1959.

"The decline in the total cases under all public assistance programs was primarily due to a decrease in old-age cases.

"A net decrease of 863 old-age cases alone for the current fiscal year, which exceeds the total net decrease under all assistance programs (722 cases), affects predominately on the downward trend," according to the report.

According to McCann-Erickson preliminary estimates, local advertisers in 1960 placed 10 times as much advertising in newspapers as they did in television; nearly 7 times as much as in radio, ad over 42 times as much as in outdoor.

You think New Year's is over. But not so. Chinese New Year is yet to come—a fearfully complicated thing. Gung Hoy Fat Choy, yes!

This is Year 4641 in the Chinese calendar.

It is the Year of the Hare.

Therefore it is a good year to have daughters. They will be like hares—timid, cuddly. Probably fond of carrots. Gung Hay Fat Choy!

☆ ☆ ☆

The New Year begins on January 25. (So why did you hit that last glass of champagne at midnight December 31? The last one is the killer, I always say.)

Anyway, I went down to San Francisco's Chinatown the other night. Everybody is getting ready for the New Year.

San Francisco Chinatown is the oldest (but no longer the largest). It is U.S. headquarters of all the family associations—the 4 Families, the Yicks, the Yees, the Wongs. It is main office for the 6 Companies and practically all of the tongs in the country.

But back to New Year. Gung Hay Fat Choy!

☆ ☆ ☆

A good many good and bad days precede the New Year. Don't miss Meat Pickling Day. That is a good one. It is also a good day to paint your walls.

Pay all your bills before January 25. Paying bills gets rid of bad luck. It brushes off you like lint off a blue serge graduation suit.

Don't miss Small Cold Day. For that matter, don't miss Great Cold Day.

January 8, I think, is Lu Pan's Day. He is the god of carpenters. It is a good day to get married—when you come to think of it, marriage is a good deal like carpentering. (Don't ask me why. A funny idea occurred to me on the way to the typewriter. But on second thought—.)

☆ ☆ ☆

About daughters. My older daughter was born in the Year of the Ram. That is not very good. She will be like a ram—always butting people.

A Chinese boy would think twice before marrying a girl with ram-like qualities.

My younger daughter was born in the Year of the Tiger. She will NEVER be able to marry a Chinese boy. She will be tigerish. Who needs it? Gung Hay Fat Choy!

☆ ☆ ☆

Meanwhile back at the kitchen. Tsao Chun is the Kitchen God. He will go to heaven on January 11 to report to the Jade Emperor.

You should never take a bath in the kitchen. It would embarrass him. He will give you an "unsatisfactory" on your report card.

My younger daughter—the tigerish one—bathes in the kitchen every day. I bathe her in the sink which happens to be large and safer than a tub.

She does not give a hoot about Tsao Chun. She is tigerish already.

My ram-like daughter bathes in a tub. She gets in and turns on a transistor radio to a jazzy station and stays in for HOURS! It drives me out of my mind.

☆ ☆ ☆

Oh yes, In any Chinatown you can get lucky red paper envelopes with lucky sayings printed in gold.

You should put money in them. Give them to children after midnight.

The money is called "Ngart Sui Chin." The children should not spend it until the fifteenth day of the moon.

My children would spend it the first day. One like a ram, the other like a tiger. I don't think anybody will ever marry them.

☆ ☆ ☆

The way to say "Happy New Year" is "Gung Hay Fat Choy." That is why we refer to the Chinese as inscrutable. Because they say such inscrutable things.

Watch out for the first three days of the New Year.

The third day is Quarrel Day. Stay home and get loaded. Out on the street, you get nothing but beefs.

If anybody quarrels with me, I will put my unmarriageable daughters on them. The one like a ram will butt them. While they are catching their breath, the tigerish one will eat them up.

Gung Hay Fat Choy!

Miller Likes Trade School Proposition

The State Department of Education is "looking with interest" on a proposal by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff that trade school classes be offered at the 4 public junior colleges, State Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller said Wednesday.

Miller said he also agrees with Carpenter that any new trade school in the state should be a considerable distance from Lincoln. The education commissioner, however emphasized he was not recommending any particular location.

He said it has been the policy of the State Board of Education "to leave the determination of the location (of a new trade school) to the good judgment of the Legislature."

There have already been proposals for new trade schools at Ogallala, Grand Island and Sidney, which are expected to go to the Legislature.

The education department now operates a trade school at Milford, not far from Lincoln, and has asked the Unicameral for funds to operate the school at full capacity during the coming biennium.

Miller said he was particularly pleased that all the proposals for new trade schools also called for support of expanding operations at the Milford trade school to capacity.

There are public junior colleges at Scottsbluff, Fairbury, Norfolk and McCook.

Dear Abby

Trade Her Theories

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a father showering with a 4-year-old son? We recently took our son on a trip and, when I let him shower with me, my wife went on a rampage. She also has many other ideas about life and nature that I think are unnatural. I can't understand how I ever ended up with her as a partner because it wasn't a must. If you agree with me, please say so in your column. She never misses it.

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Merely "agreeing" with you (which I certainly do) won't solve your problem. Your wife should have a talk with her family doctor about her "unnatural" ideas. She needs to trade some of her twisted, unhealthy theories for some enlightened, healthy ones.

DEAR ABBY: Our son (22) and his girl (23) eloped. We were very hurt but we forgave them. Dad and I offered to furnish their apartment as a wedding gift. We told them to go to my brother's furniture store and pick out what they wanted. Well, this girl walked around the store half a day and couldn't find one thing she liked. Imagine! Then she asked if they could have the cash instead. Our son sits and lets her do all the talking. So far we haven't decided what to do about it. My husband says to give them the cash. I say they don't deserve anything. We'd like your advice.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: You appear to be still "hurt" by the elopement and haven't really forgiven them. Also, you blame the girl. If you really want to GIVE them a wedding gift, give them something. But don't invite them to select whatever they want in a grand magnanimous gesture—and then spoil it by telling them where they must buy it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never puts the caps on tooth paste, mouth wash, deodorants, shaving lotion or hair tonic. How can I get him to be more careful?

NAGGING WIFE

DEAR NAGGING: If I were to send you a small sampling of letters from wives who complain because their husbands never take the caps OFF the above-mentioned items, you'd put the caps on yourself, and be glad to do it.

It's Never Dull In Suburbia

PARK MANOR

There is never a dull moment in Suburbia, and there seem to have been several very gay ones in Park Manor on New Year's Eve as two festive and fun parties were hosted by neighborhood residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Knox.

It was a New Year's celebration with a Chinese theme at the Peterson home where Mr. and Mrs. Peterson entertained a small group of friends for dinner and an evening of "oriental" fun. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Wenneck and Mr. and Mrs. William Maly.

It seems to have been an authentic Chinese celebration, for we hear the dinner menu included everything from preserved kumquats and fried rice to egg roll and chow mein.

We might also mention that, for some reason, the length of the dinner totaled three hours—this was probably due to the many courses, but it just might have had something to do with the fact that everyone conscientiously used chop sticks—the first attempt for all!

The New Year's celebration hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Knox had a bit of the "big town" flare, for the Knox recreation room was converted into a simulated night club for the event.

The guests enjoying the gala atmosphere at the Knox home included Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Burger, Mr. and Mrs. John Gradwohl, Mr. and Mrs. John Birch, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stake, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Olson, and Mr. and Mrs. Boden Portwood.

Back in Lincoln yesterday evening after a long New Year's weekend in Sioux City, Iowa, was Miss Sandy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Adams.

Miss Adams spent her Saturday-to-Wednesday visit in Sioux City with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lucklitz and their son, Tom Schemmel.

More busy people in Park Manor last evening were Mr. and Mrs. L. David Penterman and their daughter, Bobbi. The Penterman family celebrated Mrs. Penterman's birthday at a small family dinner party at home. Joining them for the evenings' celebration was Mrs. Penterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Heffley.

The bidding:

Opening lead — six of spades.

Many contracts stand or fall depending solely on how the defenders' cards are divided. The declarer has no control over the outcome of such hands and has to rely entirely on the luck of the deal.

But some contracts that appear to depend only on luck can be made by substituting the element of skill. Here is such a hand.

South is playing three no-trump and West leads a spade. The jack wins the trick and the question is how declarer should proceed.

South can count eight sure tricks at this point — a spade, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs. His best prospect for additional tricks lies in clubs, where he may be able to win one or two more tricks depending on how the missing clubs are divided.

Note what would happen in this hand if South played a club to the ace and then cashed the K-Q of clubs. He would discover that the clubs were divided 4-2, with East having four to the jack. He would then be unable to make the contract regardless of which way he turned.

Of course, this result could be charged to bad luck, since the contract would have been made if the clubs were divided 3-3 or if they were divided 4-2 with West having the club length. In the latter case, South would give up a club trick to West and thus safely develop his ninth trick.

But South has a better line of play available that substantially increases his chances of making the contract. What he should do is lead a low club from dummy at trick two, and when East plays low, finesse the eight.

True, the eight loses to the nine, but West, on lead, can do nothing to stop the contract. South is able to cash four club tricks as soon as he obtains the lead. The finesse of the eight into the safe hand assures the contract against any 4-2 (or 3-3) division.

Hostesses At New Year's Tea

Two young ladies in suburbia, Miss Linda Baldwin, the daughter of Mrs. John H. Robinson, and Miss Connie Gibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gibbons, Jr., entertained several of the younger set at a New Year's tea on Monday afternoon at the home of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robinson.

Guests at the Robinson home were ninth grade classmates of the hostesses at Millard Leffler Junior High School.

Bride At Morning Wedding

The wedding of Miss Catherine Ann Palm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Palm of Madison, Wis., and Richard Joseph O'Grady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. O'Grady of Lincoln, took place on Saturday morning, Dec. 29, at Our Lady Queen Of Peace Church in Madison. The ceremony was solemnized by Msgr. F. L. McDonnell.

Wearing bell-skirted frocks of emerald green brocade were Miss Barbara Palm of Madison, who was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Jean Palm, also a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Robert J. Meyer, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich., sister of the bridegroom.

Jack Monahan of Denver, served Mr. O'Grady as best man, and seating the guests were John Robinson, Denver; Gordon Grant, Madison, Wis.; Gerald Palm, Chicago; and Rudy Stolz, Lincoln.

The bride chose lace and silk taffeta in the ivory tone for her wedding gown. Natural scallops of the lace edged the portrait neckline of the lace bodice, which was designed with bracelet sleeves, and the bouffant skirt, snugly banded at the waist, continued into a train. Her illusion veil was held by a crown of pearls, and she carried a white prayer book showered with small white orchids and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady will live in Denver. A member of the faculty of the Adams County, Colo., Schools, the bridegroom is studying for a Masters degree at Colorado State College, Greeley, Colo. Mrs. O'Grady is a member of the nursing staff of Mercy Hospital, Denver. She is a graduate of the hospital's School of Nursing.

Questions And Answers

Patricia Scott

Using water on a garment to press it can be rather harmful; few fabrics will come out unmarred. If you are changing your hemline and wish to eliminate the original line, have the dress dry cleaned unless the fabric is wool, cotton or a synthetic.

* * *

Q. While pressing a black crepe dress where I had changed the hemline, I dampened the hem making it quite wet in places, and placed a plush-like pressing cloth over it. I used a medium warm iron over the cloth on the right side. I now have several places where the material is shiny. Is there any way they can be removed? —Miss A.B.K.

A. I doubt it. Crepe is a tricky fabric and may shine when pressed — even without water. I suggest that you have the dress dry cleaned. This may eliminate the shine.

* * *

Q. I would appreciate knowing if the Petite and Jr. Petite sizes are shortwaisted or if they have a regular waist? I haven't seen any waist lengths for Petite sizes like the half sizes for short women. — Mrs. M. J.

A. Petite sizes are made with regular misses waist lengths, but with shorter skirts for short women. Jr. Petite is short-waisted as in Jr. sizes but is also shorter in the skirt for the very short woman. Half sizes are shorter in the waist, but are generally larger in all other measurements.

* * *

Q. Could you tell me how to make the chain-like string used as a belt carrier and also how to attach coat linings at the bottom? —Miss J. R.

A. This string is called a chain tack. First, take a few small stitches over and over in the fabric so that the thread is secure. It will form a sort of bar. Slide your needle through this bar but don't pull the thread through. Instead leave a loop of the thread as in figure A. Using your fingers, pull the thread through this loop. Make more loops until the chain is the length you wish (figure B). Now, pull the thread through the last loop made and pull the thread tightening the loop (figure C).

Secure the thread by taking several small stitches in the other piece of fabric.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

Judge Orders Trial To See If Tale Of Gold Cache Is True

JESSE L. JAMES

JOE SUAZO

Albuquerque, N.M. (UPI)—U.S. Judge Waldo Rogers Wednesday ordered a trial for Jan. 28 to determine if a half-million dollars in gold bullion allegedly buried by outlaw Jesse James on the Santa Clara Reservation a century ago is a reality or a liquor-stimulated tall tale.

Rogers, at a contempt hearing Wednesday for slightly-built Joe Suazo, ordered the full trial to get to the bottom of a weird tale unfolded in court. He freed Suazo on the contempt charge and vacated an earlier default order awarding the gold to Jesse L. James, who says he is the grandson of the outlaw, who, he said, buried the gold on the Santa Clara Reservation.

Suazo, a greying, nearly toothless member of the peace-loving Santa Clara Pueblo Indian tribe, told the court Wednesday:

"I made it up. There aren't any gold bars."

14 90-Pound Bars

But James said there were, 14 bars at 90 pounds each, worth at least $500,000, and he had seen them himself—before, he charged in his suit, Suazo hid the cache.

Suazo said he failed to answer a court order to produce the gold Dec. 17 "because I don't know of any gold bars." He said he had no way of getting from the reservation, some 90 miles from Albuquerque, to the court for the hearing.

He said James "was always talking about gold," and he made up the story of the hidden gold one day when James brought liquor to the reservation. Later, he said, two men forced him into a jeep, drove him to the canyon where the gold supposedly was hidden, and tried to "make me tell where it was."

Not The Truth

James, now of Manitou (Indian for "spirit") Springs, Colo., said Suazo was not telling the truth, that the two men had found the gold but Suazo hid it in various places around the reservation later and refused to tell him where it was.

James said there actually were two men who went by the name of Jesse James, one from Missouri and one from Kentucky—"I'm from the Kentucky set," he said. But both men occasionally were in trouble with the law in the same area, and both lived past 1950 when they were well over 100 years old, he said.

Judge Rogers asked him about the story that Bob Ford shot the outlaw in the back in the 19th Century.

"That was perhaps the greatest hoax ever perpetrated by the American people," James said. "It was done for political purposes."

"Oh, brother," Rogers said.

United States Was Ready For Invasion

Washington (AP)—Gen. David M. Shoup, the Marine commandant, disclosed Thursday that 45,000 Marines were ready to invade Cuba during the crisis last October.

This was believed to be the first time any U.S. official, uniformed or civilian, has said publicly that this country was prepared to invade Fidel Castro's island before Russia agreed to withdraw missiles capable of striking deep into the United States.

Shoup's reference to 45,000 Marines "awaiting their government's decision in invasion" also represented the first disclosure of how many Marines toed the mark in ships of the fleet and at shore bases.

The Marine commander said 100,000 other Marines were "ready to back them up."

Shoup spoke of the Marine preparations in his annual speech to the Marine staff, to be made later Thursday. His remarks were prepared for a meeting at his headquarters.

HE LEFT JOB JUST IN TIME

Franklin, Ind. (UPI)—Justice of the Peace Frank Israel's last day in office will be one he is not apt to forget soon. His ceiling fell down.

He had just closed his books and prepared to turn the office over to the new justice, Virgil Stainbrook, when the ceiling collapsed, causing several hundred dollars damage. No one was injured.

Douglas To Fire 4,000 Because Of Skybolt Scuttling

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP)—Douglas Aircraft Co. plans to fire 4,000 employes within 30 days due to cancellation of its Skybolt missile program.

The first 1,200—900 of them in Southern California—will be let go this week, the firm announced Wednesday.

Most of those affected are in the Santa Monica and Culver City plants.

The administration scrapped the bomber-launched Skybolt missile program recently, saying other weapons make it unnecessary.

State Southeast Mental Health Clinic Continues

Lincoln's Southeast Nebraska Mental Health Clinic will continue to operate, with 6 Lincoln and Omaha psychiatrists providing the psychiatric service.

Dr. Thaddeus Krush, director of community services for the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, has been named chief of the Lincoln clinic, according to NPI Director Dr. Cecil Wittson.

Serving in part-time capacity under Dr. Krush will be Lincoln psychiatrists Dr. Robert Stein, Dr. Rex Strader, Dr. John Baldwin and Dr. George Kleinschmidt of the Lincoln State Hospital. From NPI, Dr. George Bartholow and Dr. Edward Beitman, a child psychiatrist, will serve at the Lincoln Clinic.

The clinic's future was imperiled in December with the abrupt announcement of resignation by Dr. Robert K. Jones, clinic director who cited disagreements with his NPI superiors as a reason for leaving.

Remaining staff members who will continue to serve the Lincoln clinic located at Bryan Memorial Hospital are Dr. William Zimmerman, psychologist, and Martha Stanek, social worker.

The psychiatrists will contnnue a half-day a week in clinic service, Dr. Krush said, during the interim period until a new clinic director is named, probably in about 6 months.

He commented that the varied backgrounds of the psychiatrists provided the clinic a "bonus" service-wise, and said it was hoped the cooperation from local psychiatrists could continue after a new permanent director was chosen.

Nebraska NFO Resists National Holding Action Ideas

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization, Wednesday met resistance to the suggestion that plans for another all-out holding action should be NFO's main course of action.

Nebraska NFO members in Lincoln favored more attention to state agriculture problems and less emphasis on a national NSO board decision to lift the all-out holding action recess at the most opportune time.

Many state members termed their chances of holding action success questionable, while they pointed to satisfaction realized from state-wide programs that have drawn attention to the militant farm group.

Unifying Forces

Bryce Bartu of Comstock, state NFO president, said the meeting had been called to unify forces which had differed over organizational policy prior to the Dec. 12 national meeting.

Lloyd Fairbanks, national organizational director, was criticized for providing no new ammunition for NFO organizors to use in their membership campaign.

"When Fairbanks finished his organizational talk, I had nothing on my paper. The national office should come up with something else besides the holding action," said Jack Beekley, Seward County NFO chairman.

Staley Resisted

Staley met resistance from the group when he accused state leaders of "not being sold on NFO."

Eugene A. Rezabek of Wilber challenged Staley's statement; the national president retracted any such thought if he left that impression with the members.

"There are many fields where our minuteman system functions excellently in challenging local and statewide problems. This attracts membership and has proven more effective in developing our organization than a holding action on livestock that has 3 times met defeat," explained a central Nebraska farmer.

"Off the Record'

Staley, referring often to comment that he classified as "off the record," presented a policy statement unanimously approved by the national board of directors listing 3 things the membership was advised they could not do.

He told them it was illegal for the NFO to use a boycott or secondary boycott.

The members were told a holding action on an on-again-off-again basis would demoralize NFO members and that a target price could be used by processors to force NFO into a holding action anytime they desired.

'We Want Action'

"We came for action and all we got from the national office was a list of things we couldn't do. We want a program of action," said a state NFO official.

While Staley all but ignored the attention NFO received from resistance to the Committee on Economic Development (CED), he credited the recent unsuccessful holding action as the prime move in securing nationwide attention from news media and the public.

An organizer who said he got the most good out of the CED campaign was greeted by applause from the near 200 members present.

Staley denied reports the unsuccessful 1962 fall holding action cost his organization a reported half-million dollars and that it had endangered the financial structure of the NFO.

Member complaints from the floor that organizers had not been paid for bills incurred during the action were discounted by Staley. He claimed that something else must be wrong or that a mistake had been made in the payment procedure.

Realism, Action

The national NFO president was asked to place more realistic prices on grain goals and for more action in securing better corn and milo prices.

Two other state meetings are planned by national NFO officials.

Nebraska NFO officials indicated they would seek a statewide agricultural program with emphasis on problems affecting farm income.

At the conclusion of the meeting Staley said he would support their efforts.

Hossack Reports State Observing Interstate Plans

State Engineer John Hossack said Wednesday the State Department of Roads has not departed from the formula for spending 77% of Interstate highway money in rural areas, 23% in urban areas.

He commented in response to a statement by Gene Kemper of Alliance, president of Greater Nebraska Interstate (GNI), who noted that as of Sept. 30 the reported total urban Interstate spending was 24.6%, and on Dec. 31, an estimated 24.4%.

Hossack said occasionally there may be some discrepancy because more work is put under project agreement in one area than the other, but said "we're doing our darndest" to adhere to the formula.

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte said the formula cannot be hit exactly during every quarter and said he is not disturbed over Kemper's report. But he said he would be alarmed if the trend toward spending more in the urban areas continues.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Pro Football Signing Sweepstakes Speed Up Pace

RAY POAGE . . . signs with Vikings' Stan West as fiancee looks on.

By Associated Press

National Football League clubs rounded up quarterback Glynn Griffing and halfback Chuck Morris of Mississippi, halfback Jerry Stovall of Louisiana State and end Dave Robinson of Penn State in a busy weekend of signings and the rival American Football League grabbed tackle Jim Dunaway of Mississippi and fullback Danny Brabham of Arkansas.

Both leagues were busy Wednesday chasing Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen, the big one who got away. The 22-year-old Wisconsin quarterback who completed 33 of 48 passes in a 42-37 losing effort in the Rose Bowl, wasn't drafted by anybody in the NFL and was the 21st pick of the New York Titans in the AFL.

NFL clubs flooded the Badger ace with telegrams and pleas of "don't do anything until you talk to us."

Wismer Makes Offer

Harry Wismer, owner of the Titans who now are in the process of being sold, said he would give VanderKelen a 5-year contract at $25,000 per year.

Pat Richter, the Wisconsin end who caught 11 of VanderKelen's passes for another Rose Bowl record, wasn't signing with anybody until after the basketball season and perhaps after the baseball season, too. He has pro baseball offers and is the Washington Redskins' No. 1 draft pick.

Lee Roy Jordan, the outstanding center of the Alabama team that racked up Oklahoma Tuesday, has not been signed. Jordan was the No. 1 draft of the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL and the No. 2 selection of the Boston Patriots of the AFL.

Baker Waiting

Terry Baker, the Oregon State quarterback who was the Heisman Trophy winner, also is waiting his time. He plays basketball and won't sign until later. Baker was the first man picked in the NFL. He went to the Los Angeles Rams. The AFL waited until the 12th round before San Diego took him.

The Giants think they got a prize in Griffing, who will be groomed as the ultimate successor to 36-year-old Y. A. Tittle. Drafted as a future in 1961 although he still had a year of college eligibility left, Griffing put on a tremendous show in the Sugar Bowl where Mississippi beat Arkansas 17-13. Head scout Jim Lee Howell, former Giant coach, was on hand with a contract.

Stovall was a prime target of both leagues. St. Louis, which drafted second in the NFL, passed over Dunaway and took the LSU back on the basis of a last minute scouting report. The Titans had picked Stovall in the AFL and the Houston Oilers had tried desperately to get the rights from Wismer, who refused to put it in writing.

Morris had been picked as a future by Green Bay in 1961. He signed with the Packers who also landed Robinson Sunday. The Packers said they planned to try Robinson at defensive end or linebacker.

Dunaway, a 6-foot-4 inch, 261-pound tackle, also had been eyed by both leagues for months. The Minnesota Vikings, who had named him their No. 1 and Minnesota's Bobby Bell as their No. 2 pick, thus lost both to the AFL.

Dunaway signed Wednesday with the Buffalo Bills. Bell had signed previously with the Dallas Texans. The Vikings did sign their No. 3 pick, fullback Ray Poage of Texas after the Longhorns' 13-0 defeat by LSU in the Cotton Bowl.

The Houston Oilers got their No. 1 draft in Brabham of Arkansas after the Sugar Bowl game. He was St. Louis' 3rd draft. The Oilers also signed halfback Paul Lea of Oklahoma.

The Cardinals were very active. In addition to Stovall they signed Duane Cook, Oklahoma tackle, and Don Estes, LSU tackle.

Canadian football got at least one man—Arkansas back Jessie Branch who signed with Calgary.

CROWDER NEW CU COACH

Silas, James Lift Creighton To Win

Omaha, Neb. (UPI) — Paul Silas, college basketball's leading rebounder this season, added 26 more along with 32 points as Creighton University Wednesday night fought off a stubborn South Dakota University, 88-66.

Silas, 6-7 Bluejay center, and Loren James, 6-5 forward who scored 31 points, were the main guns in the Creighton arsenal.

South Dakota moved to within 5 points at 51-46 after 8 minutes of the second half. It was James and Silas who led the Creighton spurt from that point as Creighton ran the score to 86-64 before giving way to the reserves.

Jim Dyer, 6-2 junior, and Jim Hale, only senior on the Coyote squad, led South Dakota's scoring with 24 and 20 points. Bill Bruns, South Dakota's 6-4 center, drew the job of guarding Silas. He hit 12 points before fouling out late in the game.

The contest Wednesday night left Creighton with an 8-6 season record. The loss left South Dakota with a 3-4 record.

Bisguier, Fischer In Chess Finals

New York (UPI)—Arthur Bisguier of New York moved into a tie for first place Wednesday with only one day remaining in the American Chess Championship tourney.

Bisguier is now even with top-rated Robert J. Fischer of New York with a score of 7 wins and 3 losses.

Bisguier played to a draw today with Samuel Reshevsky of Spring Valley, N.Y.

Today Fischer and Bisquier are paired off in a match that will see the naming of the U.S. Chess Championship unless there is a draw. The tournament began Dec. 16 at the Henry Hudson Hotel.

New Mexico '5' Downs Chadron

Las Vegas, N.M. (AP)—New Mexico Highlands hit 48.8% of its shots Wednesday night in handing Chadron State of Nebraska a 101-73 basketball defeat.

Chadron cut the Highlands lead to 64-56 early in the second half but then Highlands picked up 14 points while Chadron got just one point. At the finish Highlands scored the last 13 points of the game.

Highlands led 45-37 at the half. Pacing the winners was Harry Blake with 21 points. Walt Green had 16 for Chadron and Tom Megown netted 14.

—PROMOTES WELFARE OF NFL—

All Teams Represented In Players' Association

Hollywood, Fla. (AP) —For the first time in the 6-year history of the National Football League Players' Association representatives from all 14 teams met Wednesday in a combined effort to promote the general welfare of currently active and former NFL players.

Prior to this season the Chicago Bears players had failed to join the association. However, the Bears finally became members in November

Among subjects to be discussed during the meetings this week:

1. Income tax relief for pro football players. The association is seeking legislation for revision of income tax laws which would take into account the short career life of professional athletes.

2. An increase in the minimum salary to be paid to players for their pre-season games. The present minimum salary for each such game is $50. Some of the player representatives favor asking the club management to raise it to $100.

3. A job placement service for football players during off season while they are active, as well as for their post-active playing days.

4. A deadline date for receipt of player contracts for the new season. It is currently possible for the club's management to mail out contracts for the coming season as late as several days before the training camp is opened.

CROWDER

Orange Bowl, Big 8 Might Continue Pact

Miami, Fla. (AP)—It was indicated Wednesday that the Orange Bowl committee and the Big 8 Conference will continue their relations after the present contract expires in 1964.

C. Jackson Baldwin, president of the committee, and Warren Thompson, president of faculty representatives of the conference, issued a statement saying they were satisfied with relations that have existed over the past 9 years and that they "look forward to meeting next year to discuss future relations."

Baldwin said their contractural relations had been "pleasant" and he added it was a tribute to the conference for 11,000 Oklahomans to follow their team to the Orange Bowl this year.

Reeves Peters, executive director of the Big 8, who is retiring this year, commended the Orange Bowl committee for its promotion of the game and the fine cooperation through the years.

Peters said the millions of people who live in the 6-state area of the Big 8 Conference "look forward to this annual event as a highlight of the entire conference."

Sooner Aide Inks 5-Year Contract

. . . $15,000 PER YEAR

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—Colorado reached into Oklahoma's football brain trust Wednesday for its new coach, picking Eddie Crowder, 31, once a dazzling pass option quarterback for Bud Wilkinson's Sooners.

His choice had been considered all but certain ever since Crowder paid a visit to the campus more than two weeks ago.

The jut-jawed Crowder accepted a 5-year contract at $15,000 a year.

The announcement came from Miami, Fla., where Harry Carlson, Colorado's director of athletics, paid another visit to Crowder, an assistant coach for Oklahoma the last 6 seasons.

The Sooners took a 17-0 licking from Alabama in the Orange Bowl Tuesday.

'Delighted'

Crowder, becoming the 17th head coach for the Buffaloes and the 4th since 1958, said, "this will be a big job and I'm delighted to get it.

"It will require great effort, but the university has indicated to me that it is interested in building its football teams. On that basis, I am happy to receive the offer."

He said he believes the university "can be as outstanding in football as it is in other areas."

"I was also very encouraged and impressed by the excellent high school program which is growing in Colorado," Crowder said. "I am looking forward to getting there and getting started as quickly as possible."

Assistants

He said he hopes to pick his assistants within a week. The new coach will inherit a squad of 28 lettermen, if all return, as well as several promising gridders who weren't eligible for 1962.

The lettermen include 7 of the starters who helped over-throw Air Force in the final game 34-10. This was one of the few bright spots in Colorado's worse season ever — only the second victory against 8 setbacks.

The University at the moment has 3 head coaches on the payroll. It agreed to pay Everett (Sonny) Grandelius another year's salary when he was dismissed in a recruiting rules controversy last March 17. The contract of William (Bud) Davis, who as Grandelius' successsor resigned Nov. 24, extends to March.

Crowder wound up 3 years of quarterbacking brilliance for Oklahoma in 1952 although military service delayed his degree until 1955. He was an assistant to coach Earl (Red) Blaik at Army for one year before returning to his alma mater.

Crowder is a native of Arkansas City, Kan., and is married to the former Jean Arnold. They have three children, Michael, 6; Robert, 3, and Carol Jean, 9 months.

Westminster Hangs On To Small College Lead

New York (UPI) — Westminster (Pa.) retained the No. 1 spot in the United Press International small college basketball ratings Wednesday for the 5th straight week, even though it lost its first game of the season to Wittenberg during the weekend.

Southern Illinois clung to second place; Tennessee State moved up a notch to No. 3 while Prairie View A and M dropped one; and Wittenberg moved up one place to No. 5 in the latest ratings of the 35 leading small colllege coaches who comprise the UPI rating board.

Grambling, Evansville, Hofstra, Southeastern Oklahoma and Mt. St. Mary's filled the next 5 places in order as the makeup of the top 10 group remained the same as last week.

Westminster, which lost to Wittenberg, 58-41, last Saturday for its first defeat in 7 games, remained the top choice of 19 of the 35 coaches.

Six coaches voted for Southern Illinois, 4 picked 7th-ranked Evansville as No. 1; and two each voted for Tennessee State, Prairie View and Wittenberg.

Evansville remained in the No. 7 spot even though it defeated Harvard, a major college, and Southern Illinois, to win the Evansville Holiday Tournament.

(The coaches based their ratings on games played through Saturday night, Dec. 29.)

The United Press International small college basketball ratings (with first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

Lombardi Discounts Fund Talk

Green Bay, Wis. (AP)—Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi denied Wednesday published reports that the club had set up a $250,000 trust fund to keep him with the National Football League champions.

The story said that the Green Bay club had set up the trust, to mature in 10 years, at a special meeting after Dan Reeves of the Los Angeles club had offered the coach a fantastic deal.

The story said that the deal included 10 per cent of the Rams if Lombardi would take over the job.

Lombardi, who also is general manager of the Packers, said flatly, "I deny it."

Green Bay Packer President Dominic Olejniczak, added that he knew nothing of such a meeting or the reported deal.

"Everybody seems to know more about this deal than I do," Olejniczak said. "I know nothing of it."

Lombardi took over the Packers in 1959, after they had the worst season in the club's history in 1958. He compiled a 7-5 record his first season and since that time has won 3 straight Western Division titles and two NFL championships.

Ponca Favored In Cage Tourney

Norfolk Burns is rated a strong threat to the Indians in the 10-team tourney. It begins Monday and ends Friday.

Winside v. Coleridge; Emerson Hubbard v. Hartington, Allen v. Crofton, and Randolph v. Hartington Holy Trinity. Ponca and Burns drew byes.

ANOTHER BOWL . . . Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen prepares to leave Los Angeles for the Hula Bowl in Honolulu.

Critics, Second-Guessers Enjoy Field Day Following Rose Bowl

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — This was a field day for the football critics and they enjoyed every minute of it in the wake of the 42-37 victory of Southern California over Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl.

There were many disagreements, but on one point there was agreement:

It was the wildest in the 49 games in the famed Pasadena arena.

Coach John McKay of the winners has long contended that the Big 10 Conference teams were not invincible. He could and did point out that the Coast has now won 3 of the last 4 Rose Bowl games from the Big 10 representatives.

Win Streaks

This is significant in view of the fact that after the pact was signed in 1947, the Big Ten won 6 straight games, dropped one and then ran up another string of 6.

The Badgers from Wisconsin still are looking for their first victory in 3 appearances here.

Their rooters claimed a "moral victory" in the light of their spectacular 23-point scoring spree in the latter stages of the 4th period.

Scare

Certainly quarterback Ron VanderKelen, All-America end Pat Richter and the Badgers gave the Trojans a frightful scare.

It is only speculation, however, to suggest that Wisconsin would have won the game if the clock had not run out.

What was Wisconsin, with one of its finest teams in history, doing when the score was 21-7 at the half, 28-7 early in the third quarter, and 42-14 in the 4th quarter?

"We ran out of gas a little and couldn't come back after getting way ahead. But when all is said and done, we won, 42-37," said McKay.

Wisconsin's coach, Wilt Bruhn, was delighted with the comeback performance of the Badgers, and most everyone was spellbound by the passing of VanderKelen.

The senior broke all Rose Bowl records with the 401 yards he gained through the air.

Bruhn thought there were possibly two turning points in the game.

Bame Steals

The score was tied, 7-7, when Damon Bame of the Trojans, the Associated Press All-America guard-linebacker, intercepted a VanderKelen pass, ran it back 25 yards to the Wisconsin 30 and set up the tie-breaking touchdown.

Bame, incidentally, lived up to his All-America reputation. Official statistics show that he contributed 5 unassisted tackles, was involved in 10 more, and with the pass interception, had the finest defensive record of anyone in the game.

The Wisconsin coach also noted the damage accomplished when the Trojans went further in front, 28-7, in the first 50 seconds of the second half.

Halfback Willie Brown returned a kickoff 41 yards and on the next play Pete Beathard flipped a short pass to Hal Bedsole, who traveled 57 yards for the touchdown.

Complains

Bedsole complained after the game that the Badgers gave him a rough time, throwing insults as well as a few elbows during the game.

The 6-foot-5 Bedsole gave Wisconsin halfback Billy Smith a bad time, too, but not by rough playing. Smith, who weighs 158, reportedly received a shattered jaw and lot six teeth when he tackled Bedsole on one play.

Among other records, this had to be the longest Rose Bowl game in history. It lasted almost 3 hours, and wound up in complete darkness.

—'FEDERATION MUST DEAL'—

NCAA Won't Discuss Differences With AAU

Oakland, Calif. (AP)— The president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association said Wednesday his organization is unwilling to arbitrate its long feud with the Amateur Athletic Union.

The NCAA president, Dr. Henry B. Hardt of Texas Christian University, told the Oakland Tribune in an exclusive interview that the AAU must instead deal with the new U.S. Track and Field Federation, of which the NCAA is a member.

Hardt, from Fort Worth, Tex., said the AAU once agreed it can begotiate with the federation though it now claims this would violate international rules.

"I insist that if the AAU wants to negotiate with the federation it can because it agreed to in front of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy in New York last November, and there's no question about it," Hardt told Tribune sports-writer Ed Schoenfeld.

The AAU told President Kennedy Monday it would not be willing to arbitrate the long dispute over control of track and field, but it said it would arbitrate with the NCAA, not the federation.

President Kennedy appointed Gen. Douglas MacArthur as arbiter Dec. 12 and he was approved by the federation.

Said Hardt: "The AAU representatives agreed at the Olympic House meeting in New York to a coalition plan in which the AAU would work together with the federation. Col. Donald Hull, the AAU executive director, said he would recommend the coalition to his executive committee.

"To me, this was a sign that in Col. Hull's mind it was possible for the AAU to negotiate with the federation, and if it was not, he was not acting in good faith."

Hardt said he believes the NCAA council would support his position.

Laver Becomes Pro

Sydney, Australia (AP) — Rod Laver, Australia's grand slam amateur tennis champ, formally signed a pro contract which guarantees him $110,000 for 30 months' playing Wednesday and a half hour later he was practicing for his pro debut here Saturday night against Lew Hoad.

Hill Favored In NFL Golf Meet

Hollywood Beach, Fla. (AP)—King Hill, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles, will be the favorite when National Football League players meet in their annual golf tournament here Thursday and Friday.

Zeke Bratkowski, winner of the last two tournaments, will not compete this year. Hill finished second to Bratkowski in the 1962 event with a 36-hole total of 155.

Other good bets in the 36-hole medal play tournament will be Bernie Parris, Cleveland Browns; Dick Le Beau, Yale Lary and Dick Lane, Detroit Lions; Chuck Bednarik, Philadelphia Eagles; John Reger, Pittsburgh Steelers, and Ralph Guglielmi, New York Giants.

CITY BASKETBALL

Men's League—Flyers 41, Gooches Best 26; 69ers 2, Verns Barbershop 0 (fft.); Bombers 50, Salvation Army 38; Shopsmith 34, Chapman Savidge 31; Shamrocks 40, Gas Co. 17; Federal Aviation 22, Midwest Lumber 20; Lincoln School of Commerce 38, Happy Hour 20; NBI 30, Lincoln Barber College 19.

PLAY THAT DISTURBED WISCONSIN COACH

Wisconsin coach Milt Bruhn was upset by this play in Tuesday's Rose Bowl game in which Southern Cal quarterback Bill Nelsen apparently fumbled while attempting to pass and Wisconsin recovered. The referee however, ruled the ball dead and USC retained possession. Upper left, Nelsen (16) is hit by end Ron Carlson (28). Upper right Nelsen is down. Lower left, balls quirts away and lower right, guard Ron Paar makes recovery as ref James Cain signals play is over. The Trojans scored two plays later to take a 21-7 lead.

Parker, Ewbank, Svare NFL Status Uncertain

. . . COACHING CHANGES POSSIBLE

New York (AP) — Three coaching changes may be made in the National Football League next season at Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Los Angeles, where the status of Buddy Parker, Weeb Ewbank and Harland Svare is uncertain. Parker, at least, can have the job if he wants it.

The 11 other coaches appear to be set. George Wilson, for instance, was rewarded for his fine job with the Detroit Lions by a 3-year contract at a reported $32,000 a year.

Vince Lombardi, general manager and coach of the champion Green Bay Packers, is working on a 5-year contract signed in 1961, and Allie Sherman of the New York Giants, his playoff rival last Sunday, is all set with the Mara clan. Red Hickey probably will stay at San Francisco although some of his assistant coaches have departed.

Lemm Signs Contract

Wally Lemm, one of those originally thought to be on unsteady ground, recently signed for another year with the St. Louis Cardinals. Brought up from the Houston Oilers of the American Football League, Lemm had his troubles with the Cards. However, the club finally developed some scoring punch with the installation of young Charley Johnson at quarterback. By winning their last two games, the Cards escaped the cellar in the Eastern Conference.

Bill McPeak, who doubles in brass as general manager and coach at Washington, strengthened his position by the fine early season showing of the Redskins. McPeak was a strong contender for coach-of-the-year honors, finishing 4th with a club that won only one game in 1961. Unbeaten in their first 6 games, the 'Skins' lost 7 of their last 8.

Parker can call his shots if he wants to return for another term with the Steelers. Owner Art Rooney told Parker he wants him back but will not stand in his way if he wants to make a move. Although Buddy's contract ran out Jan. 1, he is remaining at least through Sunday's Playoff Bowl game with Detroit at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Parker to Wait

"Buddy said he wanted to wait a week or so after the game in Miami," said Rooney when in New York for the championship game. "He has done a good job for us and we'd like to have him back."

Steeler attendance suffered when the club finished the first half of the season with a 3-4 record. It did not pick up despite a sizzling finish in which Pittsburgh won 6 of its last 7 games and finished second in the East.

Baltimore is an entirely different situation. Ewbank, the toast of the NFL when his Colts won the title in 1958 and 1959, was walking the tightrope in 1961 but was re-hired. Although the Colts finished 4th with a 7-7 record and actually outplayed Green Bay in two losing games, a 57-0 beating by the Chicago Bears caused unrest. Perhaps Ewbank again will weather the storm on a "one more chance" basis.

Mid-Season Promotion

Svare took over the head coach job in Los Angeles in mid-November after the resignation of Bob Waterfield. It was announced at the time that he was promoted from assistant coach for the rest of the season only. His future was uncertain but there was reason to expect he would be given another shot if the club improved.

Under Waterfield the last-place Rams had a 1-7 record. Under Svare they were 0-5-1. They tied Minnesota and led Green Bay until the final period before bowing 20-17. It was the consensus that the Rams' attack and defense perked up under Svare, former New York Giant linebacker and assistant coach.

The switch in owners at Los Angeles clouds the issue. Dan Reeves, the co-owner who bought out his partners within the week, plans to act as his own general manager with Elroy Hirsch as his assistant. They have yet to make an announcement on a coach for next season.

Milligan — Alexandria is favored to replace De Witt as Cloverleaf Conference basketball tourney champions.

Western, Shickley and Dorchester (last year's runnerup) were also seeded by league coaches.

Funeral Services Held For Cawthon

Mexia, Tex., (AP) — Pete Cawthon, one of the nation's most colorful college and professional football coaches, was buried Wednesday with former players converging from all parts of Texas for the graveside services.

The ex-players and friends held an informal meeting after the services and began a memorial fund to help needy athletes at Texas Tech, where Cawthon's fame reached its peak.

The former coach died Monday in Sherman, Tex., of a heart ailment at the age of 64.

Free Substituting, 12-Foot Goals Possibilities In '63

By STEVE SNIDER

New York (UPI) — Things I'd like to see in '63 — but probably won't:

An exciting new heavyweight fighter who figures to stand a chance with big Sonny Liston some time in '64.

A triple crown winner in horse-racing to restore the zest to that Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont Stakes big 3. Last one was Citation in 1948.

Free Substitutions

Free substituting in college football to bring back full use of offensive and defensive platoons since that's the way the game is played on other levels — high school and pro.

College - style goal posts set 10 yards behind the goal line for use in pro football to make field goals a bit tougher for those highly proficient pro kickers. Seems to us that 3 points is a stiff price to pay for letting the other team reach a defender's 45 yard line.

Tennis matches in National Championships cut from the best 3 of 5 sets to best two of 3 at least until the semi-final and final rounds. Amateur golfers play short matches in the early rounds, why not tennis?

One golf course selected as the permanent site for the U.S. Open Championship so the boys would know in advance what their problems would be in the biggest test of the year, records would have some meaning and permanent seating could be arranged for the harried galleries that pay the freight.

More photo finishes that show our hoss in front.

Goals moved up to 12 feet high in college and pro basketball to take the edge off astronomical scoring that's beginning to produce yawns.

Speedup Play

Fewer twi-night doubleheaders in baseball and a serious study aimed at speeding up play. Major league owners recognized the slow-play business by cutting down on warm-up pitches between innings, etc., but that's only a faint start.

Enclosed football press boxes at those eastern colleges that stubbornly insist on being more than 30 years behind the rest of the nation in providing suitable protection for typewriters, teletypes and other mechanical items that don't fare too well when rain or snow blows in on 'em.

No more local television blackouts on championship pro football games once it has been determined the game itself will be a sellout.

Stop the Rain

No more rain on World Series days.

That new baseball stadium at Flushing Meadow ready for the season opener so we won't have to enter the dreary old Polo Grounds ever again.

Just watching the New York Mets is bad enough without the depressing atmosphere of the old joint.

Someone else in the World Series besides the New York Yankees so another American League city might have the privilege of seeing the great show the Yankees so often give their loyal home town boosters.

Better seasons for the suffering Mets, Chicago Cubs, Houston Colts, Washington Senators, and all the tail-enders in football, basketball, etc. — if they deserve it by making an effort.

Golfing Rules Are Unchanged

New York (AP)—The playing rules of golf will remain unchanged this year although a conference will be held May 18-19 at Turnberry, Scotland to consider possible amendments for 1964.

The United States Golf Association did announce Wednesday an amendment in the rules of amateur status. No longer will it be an infraction for anyone, regardless of age, to receive compensation for serving as a caddie, a caddie-master, assistant, or as an employee engaged in making or repairing or selling golf merchandise in a shop at a place where golf is played, practiced or taught.

In the past such work was prohibited by an amateur after the 21st birthday.

Machen Transferred To A Private Hospital

San Francisco (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen, improved in his fight against mental health problems, has been transferred to a private San Francisco hospital for further observation and treatment.

Machen, taken into custody Dec. 12 when found with a gun and suicide note, was driven Tuesday by his family from Napa State Hospital to Presbyterian Hospital.

Officials at Presbyterian Hospital, which maintains an "open door" psychiatric ward, said it was too soon to discuss treatment of the fighter or to speculate how long he might remain a patient. They stressed that excess publicity could only hurt his recovery.

Dr. Theo K. Miller, superintendent and medical director at Napa, said Machen's family requested the change of hospitals and that it was granted because the 30-year old fighter had shown great improvement recently.

Machen was committed to Napa Dec. 19 when medical witnesses at a Superior Court hearing said he was an "acute schizophrenic" and a "paranoid" who was in need of treatment and dangerous to himself and others.

Machen, ranked No. 1 heavyweight contender by the World Boxing Association, battled twice with attendants during his first few days at Napa.

Machen told officers when he was first taken into custody that he was depressed because of financial troubles.

He began boxing in 1955 out of Redding, Calif., but later moved to Portland, Ore. He had a 42-4-2 record but had difficulty of late getting good fights after a series of dull bouts.

Collins Has 'King-sized' Hangover In Battle Royal

Roy Collins has a king-sized New Year's hangover, but it didn't come from an evening of libation.

It came as a result of the 8-man Rodeo Battle Royal at Pershing Auditorium Tuesday night in the semifinal of Promoter Jack Pesek's pro grapple.

Collins, Danny Plechas, and a popular newcomer—Big Tex McKenzie—were the last 3 survivors of the not-ime, over-the-top-rope and you're through match.

And when Collins and Plechas rushed McKenzie, he caught one on each shoulder and sent them over the ropes onto the deck. Collins looped under the ring and smashed his forehead on a steel support — opening a huge gash.

He was taken to the hospital where 4 stitches were required to close the gaping wound.

McKenzie's victory—loudly cheered by the 1,540 fans—was his second of the night. He dispatched, ironically, Collins in 4:44 of their prelim match.

Don Leo Jonathan won the main event when Referee Tom Novak disqualified Big Dan Evans for his out-of-the-ring bear hugging in the 3rd fall. Evans used his hug to win the first fall in 7:42, while Don Leo evened things 5:36 later.

In other preliminary action, Ernie Dusek beat Ray Gordon in 8:37, Plechas pinned Bill Dromo in 5:33, and Bob Orton bested Jack Wilson in 11:23.

But it was the rousing battle royal that captured the fans' fancy. All 8 grapplers worked on each other, teaming to gang one at times.

The fans and 275-pound McKenzie—who delights in yelling "yahoo" and grinning when he's having success—undoubtedly thought it was a great way to start the New Year.

But the badly bleeding Collins, likewise undoubtedly, had reservations.

Supply Problem Impairs Military Preparedness

Washington (UPI) — Congressional auditors said Wednesday combat preparedness of U.S. military units has been "seriously affected" by inability to obtain repair parts and other supplies even though such material was readily available.

The disclosure came in a major report by the General Accounting Office (GAO), which acts as a congressional watchdog on government spending.

GAO told Congress and President Kennedy that failure of Army, Navy and Marine units to obtain needed items significantly contributed to or was directly responsible for many high priority combat vehicles and other equipment being in unserviceable condition.

Curtailed Training

It said the deficiencies also seriously curtailed training of troops at home and overseas and resulted in warships being operated without certain essential materials on board that would be needed in an emergency.

However, Comptroller General Joseph Campbell said the Army already has taken some remedial steps and the Navy and Defense departments were currently studying other moves.

The GAO inquiry was launched in March, 1961, after a request for it from then John W. McCormack, who is now speaker. McCormack was joined by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., and Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo.

McCormack said the lawmakers were greatly concerned with weaknesses in military supply operations uncovered by Congressional investigations.

Found Shortages

The GAO then looked into the supply setup for the 8th Army in Korea, the 7th Army in Europe, units at Fort Benning, Ga., Fort Bragg, N.C., Fort Hood, Tex., Fort Lewis, Wash, Camp Lejeune, N.C., and aboard warships docking at the Norfolk, Va., Naval Base, Pearl Harbor, San Diego, and Mayport, Fla.

The GAO said shortages were found at all the military bases visited with the exception of certain ships.

As prime examples, the investigators said, one fourth to one third of M48 tanks at Fort Bragg were out of operation during the 1961 fiscal year. They also said that most of the M56 anti-tank weapons at Fort Bragg were in a "substandard condition" at various times.

"These combat vehicles were required by top priority Strategic Army Corps units," the report said.

Without Essentials

The GAO said the 7th Army in Europe eliminated or curtailed many troop traning activities essential to combat preparedness during the same period because of supply trouble.

In addition, the report said the aircraft carrier Forrestal had operated without essential material on board.

Many of the parts shortages on the Forrestal were for such equipment as the oxygen-producing plant for jet aircraft, fire-fighting equipment and main engines.

"A breakdown in any of this equipment, without the necessary repair parts on board, could adversely affect the operation and mission of the ship," the GAO said.

The report said all of these situations occurred even though most of the needed items were available at nearby supply centers.

The GAO said the main problem was that units and ships had insufficient fund authorizations to draw upon the items.

Heartwell (AP) — Funeral services were held here Wednesday for Dr. J. J. Smith, 87, pioneer Heartwell physician and pharmacist.

Springer Dies; Hit Tune Writer

Omaha (AP) — George E. Springer, 72, who wrote the lyrics to a number of hit tunes, died Wednesday in an Omaha hospital.

Among songs for which he wrote the words was "Lies" which was composed in 1932 and sold more than a million copies.

Springer collaborated with the late composer Harry Barris on several songs including "I Surrender, Dear," and "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams." He did song writing as a sideline while operating a music store in Denver.

Springer came here 20 years ago and worked as a hotel desk clerk until recently.

Survivors include two brothers and 3 sisters, one of them Mrs. R. D. Mullin of Des Moines. Funeral arrangements were pending.

Mirror To Start Publishing As Soon As Strike Is Over

New York (AP)—The New York Morror is ready to resume publication as soon as the New York City newspaper strike is settled, publisher Charles B. McCabe said Wednesday.

There has been speculation in the industry that one or more of the 9 papers shut down might not be in business in the event of a long strike.

A walkout of printers closed 4 papers Dec. 8, and the other 5 shut down completely with the exception of the Long Island Press, which is publishing its Nassau and Suffolk County editions, circulating outside the city.

Made Strides

McCabe, in a statement, said the Mirror has made notable strides in circulation and advertising over the past two years and "will be around for a long time."

He said the paper has had 25 consecutive months of daily circulation increases, and leads New York papers in new home, automobile dealer, and hotel and restaurant advertising, and gained 400,000 lines of retail advertising during the first 11 months of 1962.

More Than Any

His announcement also said:

"November was the fourth month of Sunday circulation gains.

"Mirror circulation for most recent Audit Bureau of Circulation period was 919,064, an increase of 82,304 in the past two years; more than any newspaper in the United States except in cities where papers merged.

"Only two daily newspapers in America have circulations in excess of 900,000, and the New York Mirror is one of them." (The other is the New York Daily News.)

"In advertising, the Mirror alone of all New York City newspapers gained in retail advertising the first 11 months of 1962."

To Discuss Market

London (UPI) — The Foreign Office announced that West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder will hold talks with Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath when he visits London. Britain's bid for membership in the Common Market will be among the topics discussed.

Two Escape Reds

Vienna (AP) — Two 17-year-old Czechoslovak boys crossed the icy border River March on an air mattress and asked political asylum in Austria, police said.

Actor Jack Carson Dies Of Cancer

Encino, Calif. (AP)—Actor Jack Carson, who blustered across the screen as the loud-mouthed comedian who usually lost the girl, died at his home Wednesday of cancer. He was 52.

He had been ill for more than 6 months.

Carson was the third actor in recent weeks to die of cancer. The others were Charles Laughton and Thomas Mitchell.

At his bedside were his wife, Sandra, his brother, Robert Carson, and his physician, Dr. Seymour Hartman.

"I talked to him just this morning," said Carson's business investments partner, Frank Stempel, who was in the house when he died.

Dead On Return

"He'd been talking to his wife. She left the room for a few minutes and when she returned he was dead," Stempel said.

"He'd been walking around today and was talking normally."

Carson collapsed last Aug. 26 on an Andover, N.J., stage during a dress rehearsal of "Critic's Choice." Doctors said then he had a stomach disorder.

Big blusterer with a witty ability to enliven any party —such was the likeable Carson character movie fans began to know in the late '30s.

Master Of Double-Take

Six feet 2½, weighing 200 pounds, he was a master of the double-take, the pained expression, the over-the-shoulder glance with bulging eye, wrinkling forehead and open mouth.

Carson, Canadian-born and Milwaukee-reared, had had 5 years' experience including vaudeville, night clubs and stock companies when signed for films.

He regarded himself as an actor rather than a comedian but was a long time breaking out of the movie mold of amusing loudmouth. He severed connections with Warner Brothers in 1950 after 11 profitable years with the studio. Later he said:

"I was their hany man. Whenever they needed a few laughs in a picture they'd say, 'Let's get good old Jack.' It's no secret that in the 'Two Guys' series I did with Dennis Morgan I wrote three-quarters of the script.

Only 2 Gags

"We'd arrive on the set and everybody would sit down and say, "what can we do now that would be funny?' so I'd come up with something. Now, I only know two gags, so you can see how many variations I had to dream up."

JACK CARSON

After leaving Warners, Carson became one of the first film stars to enter television, doing a series of one-hour comedy programs for NBC.

Free-lancing in movies, he played a hard hearted press agent in "A Star is Born" with Judy Garland and James Mason, and was talked about for a supporting Oscar nomination. In "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" he had another non-comic role as a blustery, grasping son of Burl Ives.

In 1951 he made a rip-roaring debut in musical comedy, in "Texas, Li'l Darlin'," before an enthusiastic audience of some 3,000 in Dallas. The next year he appeared on Broadway in "Of Thee I Sing."

The actor was born John Elmer Carson Oct. 27, 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Carson, in Carmen, Manitoba, Canada. He became a U.S. citizen in 1949.

When he was a youngster the family moved to Milwaukee, Wis., which he always considered his home town. He attended St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis and at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., played football, led the school band and took part in dramatics.

His heft got him a collegiate role as Hercules. When he tripped over a fellow actor and accidentally pulled down the set, the ensuing laughs inclined Carson toward a vaudeville career.

W. C. Hastings Named Acting County Judge

Lincoln attorney William C. Hastings was appointed acting county judge Wednesday, succeeding L. R. Ricketts.

Ricketts, who has served under County Judge Ralph Slocum for two years, said he was resigning because of increased demands in his private law practice.

Hastings

Hastings, associated with the law firm of Chambers, Holland, Dudgeon and Hastings, is president of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Child Guidance Center.

As acting county judge he will handle all court business during Judge Slocum's absense and will assist the judge during busy court periods.

Hastings and 8 other county officials and their deputies were sworn into office Wednesday by County Clerk Carl Hartman.

48-Year-Old Man Drowned In Tub

Philadalphia (AP) — Richard Gibson Jefford drowned after he fell into the bathtub, hit a spigot and turned it on accidentally, authorities said.

Authorities said Jefford, 48, director of Civil Defense in Philadelphia's 3rd District, was attending a party in the home of Mrs. Hunter Page, of suburban Wayne.

Other guests pulled Jefford from the tub and tried artificial respiration.

Chicago's Picnic Fans Plan Ahead

Chicago (AP) — This wasn't much of a day for picnics but 169 Chicagoans had them on their minds.

They were a group which began standing at 4:30 a.m. outside the Forest Preserve district offices to obtain permits to hold picnics in district locations during 1963.

The permits are free but a $5 deposit is required to assure payment of any property damage. If there is none, the $5 is refunded.

Plane Hits House; 3 Killed In Chicago

Chicago (AP)—The plunge of a twin-engine private plane into a physician's home in darkness late Wednesday killed 3 of its passengers, including a child, and injured 3 persons.

The doctor, racing to the corner of his house which the plane struck, said he heard a woman scream from the wreckage: "Get me out of here."

The dead were tentatively identified as 3 members of a suburban Skokie executive's family: Mrs. Ginette Somlo; her mother, Mrs. Elsa Vidal, about 60, and her daughter, Susan, 8.

The injured were identified as Thomas G. Somlo, a pilot of the plane; his daughter, Terry 4, and the family maid. All were in critical condition at Northwestern Hospital.

Police said Somlo, president of the Progress Food Vending Co., Chicago, his family and the maid were returning to Chicago after a New Year's holiday visit in Naples, Fla.

The plane, a Cessna 310, clipped off a tree top, spun around, smacked into the northwest side of the home of Dr. James V. Mennella. It came to rest on his front lawn.

Mennella, 55, said he was in a recreation room off the kitchen when the plane struck and he heard nothing unusual until the crash. He was at home with his wife, Blanche; his sister, and his sister-in-law. They were not injured.

The Cessna was bound for a landing at O'Hara International Airport when the crash occurred about 5:05 p.m. O'Hara is about 8 miles west of the residential area where the plane went down.

Authorities said they were unable immediately to determine the cause of the crash. They said the plane apparently was having trouble and Somlo may have been trying to land in a block-square park several blocks from the crash site.

The aircraft punched a gaping hole in the brick facade of Mennella's home but did not break through the wall.

Britian Is Staggered By Storms

London (AP) — Britain staggered under a week of blizzards Wednesday night and another furious storm was reported on the way. The known death toll rose to 17. Hundreds of animals perished.

Arctic conditions eased in some parts of Western Europe. Light rain fell in Paris as temperatures rose above above freezing. Most of Italy was overcast and temperatures were mild. Berlin had bright sunshine but the mercury remained below zero.

Britain caught the brunt of the winter's first big storm — the worst in the United Kingdom in nearly a century.

Troops and Royal Air Force helicopters whirled into action to keep food supplies moving in the worst hit areas. Scores of villages were isolated; two major automobile plants closed and widespread power cuts piled on the misery.

Snow drifted 25 feet deep in parts of the country. Not since the winter of 1881 had such severe conditions been recorded.

Throughout the British Isles, the temperature was below freezing.

Two road cleaners collapsed and died while shoveling snow in the south of England. They were the only fatalities of the day, but others have perished in their marooned cars or on frozen station platforms.

Freeze Wages

Tel Aviv, Israel, (AP)— The executive of Israel's general trades union organization, Histadrut, has adopted a wage-freeze policy for all of 1963 in support of a government effort to prevent inflation and improve Israel's competitive position in world markets.

Dock Strike Talks Make Real Advance

New York (UPI) — Under Secretary of Labor James Reynolds said Wednesday "real progress" has been made toward settling the 12-day East and Gulf Coast dock strike and announced he had called in a Harvard professor to help find a key to settle the dispute.

Reynolds met Wednesday with shippers and dockworkers in place of Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz in an effort to halt the walkout which has idled thousands of workers, hundreds of ships and millions of tons of cargo.

He said Prof. James Healey was called in by the government to make a quick survey of the union's welfare and pension demands, now considered the major stumbling blocks in the way of settling the dispute.

"Prof. Healey will meet Thursday with union and shipping officials and then make a report to Labor Secretary Wirtz," Reynolds siad.

Stanton St. Block Vacation Set For Hearing Jan. 22

Public hearing on vacation of a block of Stanton St. near No. 10th was set for Jan. 22 by Lancaster County commissioners Wednesday.

According to County Engineer Hugh Dillon, the strip should be vacated to facilitate construction of new homes in the area.

In other business, Sheriff Merle Karnopp requested the county purchase a collapsible wheelchair to be used in transporting patients for mental hearings.

He said the approximate cost would be $125.

Board Chairman Ralph Harlan suggested Karnopp investigate the types of wheelchairs available at the County Emergency Shop, but indicated that the board probably would approve such a purchase if the collapsible type is not available at the shop.

Something Missing

Wigan, England (UPI) — Police said they found a set of false teeth still gripping a cigar in the town center after a New Year's Eve celebration.

Fireman Dies In Explosion; Family Saved

San Francisco (AP)—One fireman was killed and 7 injured Wednesday in a gas explosion that blew a house apart and played havoc with commuter traffic in foggy southeast San Francisco.

Two missing firemen were found in a hospital. Police said 1,000 persons were evacuated from a 5-block area near Alemany Boulevard, Nevada Street, and Crescent Avenue.

Battalion Chief Frank Lamey was killed. He had just led a mother and her 4 children from their destroyed house when the explosion occurred. The family group was uninjured.

Twin Valleys Gets $288,000 Loan

Washington (AP) — The Rural Electrification Administration announced Wednesday a loan of $288,000 to the Twin Valleys Public Power District of Cambridge, Neb. The money will be used on expansion of the district's rural power system.

Deputy Lane Injured When Cars Collide

Deputy Sheriff Robert D. Lane was hospitalized Wednesday night after his patrol car was struck from behind by another auto on 9th between M and L.

Lane was stepping from the driver's seat of his car when it was struck by an auto driven by LuVerne H. McKay, 47, of 1026 So. 13th, police said.

St. Elizabeth Hospital officials said Lane, 35, of 3241 No. 45th, complained of back pains, but no fractures were found and it was believed he had only a severe sprain. He was listed in good condition.

Lane, with his partner, William Jones, had stopped behind a southbound car driven by Marvin M. Blauvelt, 19, of 4000 Cornhusker Hwy. Police said they had halted Blauvelt for a traffic violation.

According to officers, when the McKay auto struck the rear of the patrol car, the county vehicle was pushed into the Blauvelt car. The patrol car sustained about $300 damage, they said.

Blauvelt and Jones were also checked at the hospital, but no injuries were found and both were released. Jones, shaken up by the mishap, was released from duty for the evening, the Sheriff's office reported.

Novelist Can't Be Reconciled With Mate, Court Says

Paris (AP) — A Paris court ruled Wednesday that reconciliation of novelist Francoise Sagan with her American husband, Robert Westhoff, apparently is impossible. This ruling clears the way for a divorce degree.

Magistrate Jean Coudert summoned Miss Sagan and Westhoff to appear before him for the attempt at reconciliation which is mandatory in French divorce actions.

Miss Sagan showed up with two lawyers. Westhoff sent a letter saying he could not appear personally and that he would not oppose granting custody of their 6-month-old son, Denis, to the mother.

Miss Sagan did not ask for alimony. Westhoff, a native of Minneapolis, Minn., was studying ceramic sculpture in Paris when he met the author.

Negotiations Resume In Cleveland News Strike

Cleveland (AP) — Negotiations resumed Wednesday between the striking Cleveland Newspaper Guild and representatives of the city's two daily papers, which have been closed down for 34 days.

It was the first bargaining session since Saturday in efforts to reach a new union contract with the Plain Dealer and Cleveland Press and News.

Deputy Nabs Two Soldiers In Stolen Car

Two 17-year-old soldiers, one from Lincoln and one from Kansas, were being held by the Lancaster County Sheriff's office for Tennessee authorities after they were caught in a stolen car near 14th and Cornhusker Hwy.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Lane said they admitted that they had been absent without leave (AWOL) from Fort Benning, Ga., since Saturday, and had stolen two cars and several gallons of gas before arriving in Lincoln.

Lane said he spotted the youths' car Tuesday night when they drove, without lights, from behind Kinsey Truck Co. at 1610 Cornhusker Hwy. He stopped them at 14th and Cornhusker, and later found that gas had been siphoned from a truck at Kinsey's.

He said the youths admitted stealing cars at Columbus, Ga., and Pulaski, Tenn. They were driving the Tennessee car when apprehended, though it carried license plates stolen in Columbus, Kan.

Lane said both youths agreed to sign a waiver of extradition to return to Tennessee or Georgia for legal action on the car thefts.

Tennessee authorities left for Lincoln Wednesday, Lane said.

Stock Market Posts Losses

New York (AP)—The stock market Wednesday made an inauspicious debut for 1963, posting losses in the popular market indicators as trading sank to the lowest level since the semi-holiday of Columbus Day last Oct. 12.

It is not unusual for the market to have a sluggish first session of a year but this time a livelier performance was expected due to anticipated reinvestment of large sums reaped from year-end dividends and tax-loss sales.

Volume fell to 2.54 million shares from Monday's year-end total of 5.42 million and was the smallest since 2.02 million shares changed hands on Columbus Day.

Caution was linked by brokers to several factors. Some market advisories suggested that prices might backtrack or "consolidate" for a while in order to digest the vigorous November rally.

President Kennedy was reported to be seeking a gradual tax cut, thus dampening the enthusiasm of some who hoped for swift, dramatic action in this field.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 5.31 to 646.79.

Steels, nourished by predictions of big January shipments, and rails, hopeful of additional merger approvals by the government, advanced against the trend of most blue chips.

Although the averages dipped, more stocks advanced than declined, the score being 555 to 447, of the 1,232 issues traded. New highs for 1962-'63 totaled 22.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .7 to 242.7 with industrials down 2.3, rails up 1.0, and utilities off .2.

Ten of the 15 most active stocks declined and 5 advanced.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed as volume slipped to 640,000 shares from 2.72 million on Monday.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds rose. Rail bonds were strong.
